MURDER OF WOMAN IS CONFESSED

Bank Robber Released in Prison Holdup

LICENSE LAW ATTACK WILL BE RESISTED

First Section of Charter is Held to Permit Ordinance

BROAD POWERS ARE GRANTED

Carmen May Urge Early Hearing in Their Several Suits

City commissioners will resist the fight against certain sections of the new license ordinance by standing on Section 1 of the city charter, Mayor Harold Cunningham said Monday noon. He expressed the belief that possible a friendly suit in court might be the best way of getting a decision on the moot questions in the new license.

Among the powers granted to the city commission by the first section of the charter are these:

"May license, regulate persons, corporations and associations engaged in any business, occupation, profession or trade."

"May regulate and control the use, for whatever purposes, of the streets and other public places."

After reciting that the city commission shall have all the powers prescribed by the constitution and the laws of the state, or that may hereafter be prescribed, the charter provides that the commission can exercise other powers, "when not prescribed herein, in such manner as shall be provided by ordinance or resolutions of the city commission."

Under these three broad grants provided in Section 1 of the city charter, the city commissioners believe that the licensing ordinance cannot be successfully resisted. They have turned the protest over to City Solicitor Paul Landis for an opinion, the mayor said Monday.

No new action in the injunction proceedings instituted by striking carmen in common pleas court against the city had developed Monday. The striking car workers are seeking to nullify the present ordinance granting the Lima City Street Railway Co. the right to operate.

The city has until Nov. 3 to prepare and file an answer. The carmen's application for an order did not ask an immediate hearing. This means that the Lima City Street Railway will continue to operate under the franchise until settlement of the case.

ACTION A SURPRISE

Paul T. Landis, city solicitor, declared Monday that the action of the carmen is a surprise, although the allegations made are similar to those offered by carmen in defense of jitney operation before Judge Miller last week.

Landis predicted that the case will take its regular turn on the calendar in common pleas court.

On the other hand Clarence C. Miller and Ben F. Welty, co-counsel for the carmen, will urge an early hearing, they declared.

Petitions asking the city commission to repeal certain portions of the license ordinance relating to operation of busses and taxicabs were being printed Monday.

BABY BEAR DIES

Thor, Playmate of the Children, Death at Fautot Park

Death has stalked in the city zoo at Fautot park and claimed the cub on Sunday afternoon. The bear has taken sick with stomach trouble last week and the city veterinary was called. First he treated the bear and then performed an operation. Saturday the bear appeared to be on the road to recovery but Sunday it died.

WHO WILL GET THEM?

Robert Howard, Jr., 2, and Catherine Bruce Gamble, 3, are now, according to wire reports, with their father, Robert Howard Gamble, in Florida. He refused to give them up to his wife who obtained a divorce from him last July in Paris. She maintains he took them from her home at Huntington, D. T., without her consent.

FIRE FROM OIL STOVE
THREATENS TEA PLANT

Quick Work by Lima Fire Department Prevents Damage

CHIEF MACK SOUNDS WARNING

Cautions Against Use of Unguarded and Defective Heaters

Fire originating from an unguarded coal oil stove in the home of Joseph R. Rickoff, fourth floor of the Lima Tea Co. building, N. Union-st., Sunday night threatened total destruction of the structure and contents at an aggregate loss of $100,000.

Efficiency by Lima Fire department prevented spread of the flames and a probable disaster, according to Fire Chief Mack who reported that the entire fourth floor would have been a mass of flames had the fire apparatus delayed in responding to the call.

HIGH VALUE

The four-story brick and cement building is roughly estimated valued at between $50,000 and $75,000 and large cargoes of tea and other contents are valued at between $30,000 and $40,000.

Blaze is reported to have originated from a coal oil stove which was turned on by Mrs. Rickoff, who left the room, according to reports.

Flames leaped from the stove to the ceiling and endangered a combustible tank of coal oil near the stove, according to firemen who said the tank was heated dangerously near to an explosive degree when they extinguished the stove flames with chemicals.

The fire was discovered by a stranger at the B. and O. who reported the fire.

In conjunction with the fire Sunday and two other small blazes, Fire Chief Mack Monday issued a proclamation warning against the dangers of gasoline stoves, coal oil stoves and defective heaters, as part of the national movement for observance of fire prevention week.

Fire prevention lectures are to be delivered in schools, fire drills by school children and publicity brought before the public in show houses and then school children.

"This is fire prevention week," Fire Chief Mack said. "If Lima just remembers to avoid carelessness the number of fires will be greatly reduced."

COUNTY JAIL
IN OKLAHOMA

Spencer Gang Member Freed by Five Unmasked Men

PARTY LED BY YOUTH OF 18

Legislators Planning for Special Session Thursday

JAY, Okla. — (Associated Press) — Five unmasked men held up the county jail here last night and released Ed Lockhart, bank bandit.

The bandits fled south in a motor car. The actual holdup was committed by a youth not more than 18 years old. The other men stationed themselves about the jail to fight off any resistance.

"Get your clothes on, Ed, we've come after you," the youth called. "I'm dressed and ready," was Lockhart's reply.

Lockhart was given a gun and climbed into the automobile whose driver had kept the engine running.

The boy who held up the jailer was recognized by him as a youth living near the Pete Baker farm six miles west of Kansas. Lockhart was captured at the Baker place last Thursday.

Lockhart is under twenty years of age for bank robbery. He is said to have been a member of the Henry Starr gang, and is suspected of having joined Al Spencer, bank bandit and train robber chief, following the death of Starr, near Harrison, Ark.

LEGISLATURE PLANS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — (United Press) — Leaders of the Oklahoma legislature held secret caucuses today in preparation for the special meeting called for next Thursday by Governor J. C. Walton, to consider "anti-mask legislation."

The governor's friends concede that the house of representatives will recommend Walton be removed. Under the Oklahoma statutes, an impeachment "indictment" voted by the house is sent to the senate for action. That body votes to either remove or exonerate the executive.

Every effort was being made by the Walton supporters to obtain pledges from state senators to prevent the two-thirds vote necessary for impeachment. James A. Harris, Republican national committeeman, following a conference with the governor, was reported to do everything within his power to induce the 12 Republican members of the senate to vote against removal of the executive.

Harris has strongly supported Walton's campaign against the Ku Klux Klan.

Walton supporters declared today that by his bold stroke Saturday night in calling the special session of the legislature, five days before the date set for the "rump" meeting to consider his impeachment, Walton had gained support in the senate.

The senators had not approved the governor's course in refusing to allow the legislature to meet.

PRIEST IS KILLED
BY WOMAN

Clergyman Shot to Death at Altar in Chicago

MAN IS SOUGHT IN CASE

Female Assailant Saved from Angry Crowd by Police

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Emma Strutynsky, kneeling in the sanctuary of the little Greek Orthodox church of St. Michael the Archangel, her head bowed as if in prayer, shot and killed the Rev. Basil Stetsuk as he knelt before her to receive by a special consecration, a Sunday confession that she said she wanted to make because she was very ill and was going to a hospital.

Her scream "cheat" and the explosion and tiny spurt of flame of a pistol struck terror to the hearts of the parishioners bowed reverently in the pews. The first bullet struck the priest full in the mouth just as he knelt and said "My daughter, what is it?"

Two women seized Mrs. Strutynsky as she followed the reeling priest from the vestry and fired four more shots at him, two into the back and two which merely passed thru his gown. She was saved by police from an angry crowd which quickly gathered.

WOMAN'S EXCUSES

Half a dozen excuses dropped from her nervous lips as she sought to justify her act. She would declare that Father Stetsuk was squandering church funds; mutter of oppression in her native Ukraine; of how her brother had slain a Galician governor who had oppressed the people; and dwindle off into whispered chattering of a code of personal vengeance.

"My husband was sent away from the parish," Mrs. Strutynsky told the police. "My husband built the great church of St. Nicholas. He gave his life to it. And then he was dismissed. The wonderful church of St. Nicholas was turned over to Father Stetsuk. He was wasting the money of the parish. Father Stetsuk cheated my people. He was a cheat and a hypocrite. I had to kill him."

The police representatives of the state attorney's office said they believed Mrs. Strutynsky is mentally deranged.

She said she set out five weeks ago to kill the priest, stopped at Pittsburgh, Pa., and sent her daughter to Ramsey to be with my husband when he should hear of this."

MAN SEARCHED FOR

The Rev. Strutynsky in Ramsey last night told the police that he had no intimation of his wife's intention. He telegraphed her he was coming here to aid her.

The Rev. Strutynsky is under indictment charged with embezzlement of $50,000 or more which is said to have gone into the building of the beautiful St. Nicholas church here.

An inquest will be held today and Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, will decide whether to have Mrs. Strutynsky held for murder or committed as insane.

Despite her reiteration that she alone was responsible, the police are searching for a man who had been heard to say "Something is going to happen in this church."

Father Stetsuk's parishioners declared there was no basis for Mrs. Strutynsky's allegations of financial discrepancies.

NURSE SLAIN BY VOODOO DOCTOR

Victim's Head Crushed With Heavy Stone at Abandoned Mansion in Pittsburgh—Crime Admitted by Negro—Deck of Cards Leads to Arrest

PITTSBURGH.—(Associated Press).—Miss Ethel Barthel, 28-year-old nurse, was killed by Alonzo Savage, negro voodoo doctor, when she refused to give him $395 for "curing her love life," according to a confession which city detectives said the negro made early today. The confession, according to Captain of Detectives Louis Left, was made after Savage was taken to the scene of the crime shortly after midnight.

Under the glare of automobile headlights, Captain Left said, Savage re-enacted in detail his movements when he met the nurse beneath the portico of a deserted East End mansion.

The negro confessed, Captain Left said, that he struck the nurse in the face when she grabbed the money out of his hand, felled her with a brick and then dropped a seventy pound block of marble on her head. As she fell Miss Barthel cried "I'll give it to you," Savage is said to have told the detectives, but the negro stepped to the outside of the portico and pushed the loose marble block from the wall, crushing the victim's head.

LOVE DIFFICULTIES

Details of the confession made public by Captain Left, recited how Miss Barthel met Savage while they were employed by an East End physician, the woman as a nurse and the negro as a butler. The nurse learned of Savage's ability as a "fortune teller" and approached him when she had difficulties with her sweetheart. Savage gave her six cards, held together by a black pin and told her the "charm" would work if she returned the cards to him and paid him $395 on Saturday night.

They met under the portico late that night and Miss Barthel handed Savage the cards and an envelope containing the money. When Savage announced that the "cure" had worked, the nurse grabbed the money from his hand. Then followed the killing. Savage poked up the money, but in his haste he dropped the blood marked cards. It was these cards that led the police to arrest the butler. In his home they said they found a deck of cards with six missing. The cards found near the body completed the deck, Captain Left declared.

Walter Hauke, a taxicab driver and friend of Miss Barthel, was taken to Central police station for questioning. While talking with detectives, Hauke spied Savage, who was being held as a suspect. Hauke then identified Savage as the negro he had carried in his cab to the East End district on Saturday night. Savage, up to that time, had maintained his innocence, but when Hauke confronted him, the negro confessed, Captain Left declared.

ON NORTH-ST

Burkholder, who is driving a truck for Edgar Root, of Bluffton, and hauling paving materials from the B. & O. switch line at E. North-st to Michael-av, said he was driving west and saw Bresler and two other boys riding wheels, and that before he started to turn north along the railroad tracks he looked to see if anything was coming behind him.

Burkholder said he did not see anything and as he was turning he heard a boy shout. He stopped the truck, killing the engine by applying brakes hard, and saw Bresler with his leg pinned by one of the rear wheels. He then started up the truck, releasing the boy.

The boy is a pupil at Franklin junior high school. At noon his condition was said to be good and that it will not be necessary to remove the foot.

SHANK TRIAL IS POSTPONED

Drawing and Serving New Venire Holds up Court Plans

The trial of Charles Shank, farm laborer, on an indictment charging first degree murder of Mrs. William Tenwalde, five miles west of here, was changed Monday from Nov. 5 to Nov. 12.

This action was taken because of an error in the drawing of the jury to hear the case, as has been told exclusively by The Lima News.

The first venire from which the jury was to be selected was drawn immediately following the arraignment of Shank on Sept. 29. Names of 36 persons were taken from the jury wheel.

Later it was discovered that action was in error under a new law passed last February.

The new statute requires that the court designate the number of names be drawn, stipulating that more than 50, and less than 75 be chosen and that from this number the jury be selected.

It is expected the list will be drawn late Monday afternoon.

POLICE WARRING ON "DRUNKEN ORGIES"

RESPONSIBLE FOR ACCIDENTS

Liquor Parties Held as Cause of Two Smashes

AUTO IS BELIEVED STOLEN

Occupants Escape Before Police Arrive on Scene

Drunken orgies in automobiles are the object of a war declared Sunday night by Lima police department as the aftermath of a wreck of an automobile occupied by three carousers.

A touring car found wrecked at Market-st and Pine-st, was traced to the Reo garage before police responded to a call that three drunken occupants were responsible for the smashup.

Motorcop Roney investigated and reported that A. J. Murphy, one of the proprietors of the garage, refused to answer his questions concerning ownership of the automobile. Sergeant Watkins placed Murphy under arrest on a suspect charge, but released him shortly afterwards.

MACHINE BELIEVED STOLEN
A letter report to police stated that the machine was stolen Sunday night from in front of the Elks home on W. North-st. It is said to have been stolen from Oscar Stroup.

Revelers Friday night under the influence of liquor, two of them women, were responsible for considerable damage to automobile owned by C. F. Zumbene, 942 Leland-av, parked on W. High-st near Central High school.

The "Joyriders" car, crashed into the parked automobile. The occupants stepped on the gas and soon outdistanced Fred Carter, taxi driver, who pursued them.

Forty per cent of accidents in Lima and on newly traveled highways leading to surrounding towns are attributed to liquor by Police Chief Lanker, who repeatedly has given orders to break up all automobile parties of suspicious nature.

RITZ HOTEL HELD UP BY GANG

$5,000 Worth of Gems Taken by Bandits

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Three armed men early today held up the night manager and several other employees of the fashionable Ritz Carlton hotel and robbed jewelry store off the lobby of $5,000 worth of gems.

The robbery occurred at 2:30 a. m. Charlie Chaplin, who entered the lobby 15 minutes after the bandits fled, was the first outsider to learn of it.

Not until five hours later, after hotel employees had tried to trail the robbers and failed, was the holdup reported to the police.

Entering the hotel at the main entrance, the bandits, well dressed and armed, called for the night manager and ordered his hands up. Porter, bell man and elevator operator were herded into an elevator and kept prisoner there by two of the invaders, while the third ransacked the showcase of the adjoining gem shop and scooped out jewels.

When a special policeman appeared the bandits fled, leaving $5,000 worth of jewels in the ransacked case.

The bandit trio drove up to the entrance in a large automobile and entered into the Ritz Carlton, jangling animatedly. They had all the appearance of bona fide guests and they whipped out pistols.

When Chaplin strolled in the imprisoned employees had just been released by the hotel's special officer who became aware that something was amiss when, from an upper floor he heard the sound of crashing glass but received no reply when he telephoned the desk to learn the use.

REPUBLIC LOOMS IN RHINELAND

Planned for Left Bank and in Ruhr, Says Paris Report

PARIS NOW MORE OPTIMISTIC

Sees Success in Parley With German Industrialists

PARIS—(Associated Press)—The separatists intend to attempt the establishment of a Rhineland republic at an early date, says a Mayence dispatch to Le Journal.

The republic will be proclaimed simultaneously in all the principal cities of the left bank of the Rhine and in the Ruhr, the correspondent says. He adds that there is good reason to believe it will be successful, the separatists having made their plans carefully and making elaborate precautions to avoid bloodshed.

PARIS—(Associated Press)—Negotiations between representatives of German industrial groups and the Franco-Belgian authorities of occupation, looking toward complete resumption of work in the Ruhr and deliveries in kind on reparation account, are in a fair way to succeed, it was said at the French foreign office today.

THREE GROUPS CONFER
Three groups have been represented thus far in the conversations at Duesseidort—the Stinnes-Clockstein, the Otto Wolf-Kapp and the Von Vlessingen groups. The results of these conferences when they reach a stage promising the actual resumption of reparation deliveries, will necessarily be referred first to the allied governments, negotiated in the Ruhr occupation and then to the British government and the reparation commission.

With the regard to the recent speech of Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary before the imperial conference, in which he said Great Britain was waiting the next French move, it was declared that France had no proposals to make to Great Britain.

The proposals, it was declared, must come from Germany. When they do come they will be submitted to the British government as a matter of courtesy in any event, and as a matter of right in case they involve other phases of the reparation problem than the occupation of the Ruhr, in which Great Britain is not interested.

INSURANCE MEN TO HOLD BANQUET SATURDAY NIGHT

DESCENDANTS OF MUTINOUS CREW HAPPY

PORTLAND, Ore., (United Press).—Down under our continent, on the small Pitcairn island, 2,000 miles off the coast of South America, live 137 descendants of a few British sailors who two centuries ago mutinied, killed their officers, and settled on that little dot on the world's map.

With Polynesian wives they took from Tahiti, the English refugees set up their own government, and there today their descendants live in utmost simplicity, but in happiness and contentment.

Not often than once a year they are visited by some steamer. The latest vessel to call at the island was the schooner William Taylor, with Captain John Trainor in command, which entered Portland harbor a few days ago, the crew revealing strange tales of experiences on the unusual voyage.

The islanders were in the best of health and spirits, Captain Trainor reported here, and not having had any communication with the outside world for more than a year, piled him with questions about happenings in other lands.

Despite the fact the Pitcairn residents have exiled themselves from their homeland, they still cling close to things English, teaching their half-breed children the English language. Although their mode of living is almost primitive, they are very well educated, the schooner's master said. Still, they hold to their own and express no desire for additional comforts or luxuries.

Their needs are simple. They raise everything they wish to eat, and live on fish, native fruits and vegetables, all supplied by their own hands. Cloth, tools and other simple supplies are all they need from "outside."

For these meager necessities they exchange with the bargaining schooner masters who visit them at long intervals the bountiful fruits and nuts which grow wild on the island, practically the only thing they have to offer.

PROBE INTO WEBB DEATH RENEWED

Doctor to Make Statement Before Grand Jury

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(Associated Press).—The grand jury investigation into the death of Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb, wealthy society woman, who died at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club in Rye, N. Y., thirteen days ago, was renewed today with the promised introduction of evidence that a "certain person" dissolved poisonous tablets and gave the solution to Mrs. Webb for some time prior to her death.

Dr. William J. Meyer who attended Mrs. Webb during the last month of her life, stated last night that the evidence was in the form of a statement he declares she made to him just before she died.

Dr. Alexander O. Goettler, toxicologist of Bellevue hospital, who examined parts of the body, will read the report of his findings, which death without contributory causes, show that some poison was in the Westchester-co authorities stated they did not expect the grand jury to return a murder indictment, but said they looked for a sudden new turn to the case with an indictment alleging one or more lesser crimes.

The two nurses who attended Mrs. Webb are expected to testify today as is Mrs. Robert S. Johnstone, wife of a former New York judge, and Dr. Meyer.

The physician has indicated that he had a quantity of detailed testimony and evidence which he did not disclose when he appeared before the grand jury last week.

WOMAN CHARGES DOUBLE LIFE

Testifies Against Man Who is Held Under Mann Act

U. S. OPENS SHAMA HEARING

Promise of Marriage Never Was Fulfilled, is Claim

The alleged dual life of Fred Shama, Assyrian, of Leipsic, was bared before U. S. Commissioner C. W. Long Monday, by Mrs. Margaret Marshall, 33, who charges Shama transported her from Troy, N. Y., to Ohio, under promise of marriage in violation of the Mann act.

Before residents of Leipsic, Shama posed as a respected business man and in Lima he was known as the husband of Mrs. Marshall, who went under his name as well as her own, the plaintiff told court.

Three kiddies greeted him here as "Daddy," according to testimony. Shama induced the complainant to come from Troy to Ohio, about three years ago, the witness told Commissioner Long.

Her real husband had left her some years before, she said. There were several children, of whom Shama is accused of being the parent.

Shama and the witness met first in the Assyrian colony in Troy, and later were engaged together in selling lace and rugs from place to place.

MARRIED AT 12
The witness told of coming to the United States when a child and locating in the Assyrian colony. At 12 years she was married to a man named Joe Makeker. She was the bride winner, she declared.

A love affair between her and Shama sprang up while they were traveling together selling oriental goods.

Mrs. Marshall first went to Cleveland, she said, where she phoned to Shama at the Royal restaurant in Leipsic. He telephoned her from Toledo the following day, asking what name she was registered under. She replied that she had signed as Mrs. Marshall. He arrived later and registered as Mr. Marshall, she said.

Later the couple came to Lima. The two lived or were known as Mr. and Mrs. Shama, in a number of places in the city. For a time Mrs. Marshall resided in 319 W. Wayne-st, and ran an art shop in 307 W. Market-st.

She also lived at various times in Superior-st, in Garfield-av and in State-st. A child, by Shama, she said was born to her in St. Rita's hospital in June 1931.

GETS DIVORCE
In January 1932, a divorce freeing Mrs. Marshall from her first husband was granted in common pleas court. Shama's attorneys charge that the decree was obtained under false pretenses.

The witness admitted she had misrepresented the matter to the court, but defended herself by asserting that she was induced to do so by Shama.

Relations between the two have extended over a nine-year-period, testimony showed. Shama the witness said, never would allow her to come to Leipsic. It would hurt business, he is alleged to have told her.

Charges were filed against Shama when Mrs. Marshall became convinced he was endeavoring to cast her aside.

Shama was to take the stand Monday to answer the charges made by the woman. He will assert it is understood, that she followed him to Ohio, and that he did not bring her.

Assistant District Attorney George Reed, is representing the government in the hearing.

STATE LAW DECLARED VIOLATED BY STUDENTS

COLUMBUS—Hundreds of Ohio school pupils who belong to school societies are violating the state law, prohibiting fraternities and sororities in the public schools under a ruling today by Attorney General Crabbe as to what constitutes a fraternity or sorority under the law.

An organization which uses Greek letters in the designation of its name which has initiation ceremonies which "pledges" students to membership, or holds secret meetings comes under the ban, Crabbe ruled in an opinion to Education Director Riegel.

Opinion was asked by the department of education at the request of a high school superintendent, whose name and school are withheld.

TRAFFIC RULING CONFUSES TED

What with the new parallel parking rule, proposed two-hour law and other traffic regulations, Ted gets quite confused when he rides up town on his new kiddy car. Monday he rode up town to find out what the weather prediction was and found it would be fair Monday night and Tuesday, but that it would continue cold. First, heavy in lower places, was also forecasted.

GATHERS DATA ON CITY FINANCES

City Manager to Make Report to Commissioners

Acting on a request made by city commissioners late Saturday, City Manager Bingham is preparing a special report on the city finances which will be read to the meeting of the city commissioners Monday night, he announced Monday morning.

City Commissioner John Harley, he said, made the request for the report and was joined in this request by Commissioners H. L. Breckenridge and E. E. Jones.

This special report is expected to give the entire commission detailed information not only as to the status of the five operating funds of the city, as shown by Auditor Churchill's report, but will also show how the moneys have been spent during the year, as far as can be shown in a report at this time.

The three commissioners were at city hall during the forenoon to see if they could get the figures as they wanted to study them over before the meeting, but owing to the lateness of the hour at which Bingham got the request Saturday, the report was not ready until late Monday afternoon.

LABOR TO DEFEAT THIRD PARTY MOVE IS BELIEF
PORTLAND, Ore.—Political issues came to the forefront today as the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor started the second week.

The defeat of the resolution, endorsing the Farmer-Labor "third party" movement, was predicted by opponents and almost conceded by proponents. All admitted, however, that it would be the subject of extensive discussion.

"The federation this year, will strike longer than ever at the third party movement," declared Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank of New York.

EFFORT TO BEAT TRAIN COSTS LIVES OF THREE
WASHINGTON—Three persons were instantly killed today when a Baltimore & Ohio express train struck an automobile on a railroad crossing at Lamond, a suburb here.

The automobile driver apparently attempted to beat the train over the crossing.

Police believe the dead are: Samuel Coe and A. B. Hoagland, both of this city and Herman Steiner, an employee of the bureau of standards.

The wreckage from the automobile was strewn over the tracks for several hundred yards. No one saw the accident.

DONAHEY'S GASOLINE INQUIRY ANSWERED
COLUMBUS—"We are selling gasoline in Ohio as cheaply now as we can sell it."

This, in effect, is the Standard Oil Company's reply to Governor Donahey's request for explanation why prices are higher here than in adjoining state and asking for a reduction to Ohio consumers.

Gasoline is being sold thruout the state from tank wagons, the company wrote Donahey at 17 cents. This is as low as the company can sell, unless forced to meet competition at a loss, it was asserted.

A WOMAN'S LOVE MUTINY CAUSE

Wife of Dead Convict Tells of Plot for Prison Dash

"DID IT FOR MAN I LOVED"

Widow Confesses Part in Crime Causing Six Deaths

LOUISVILLE—(United Press)—A woman's love was responsible for the playing of three prison guards and three convicts in fighting which followed the attempted prison delivery at Eddyville last week, according to parts of the confession of Mrs. Lillian Walters, 21, made public by police here today.

Mrs. Walters is the widow of Monte "Tex" Walters, one of the three convicts who held the mess hall of Western Kentucky penitentiary for four days against the guns of half a hundred militiamen and prison guards.

"Tex and I were alone in plotting his escape," the convict's widow said.

"We had planned for weeks and I owed it to my husband, whom I loved, to help him as any other woman would have done for the man she loved."

ONLY TWO INCLUDED
Only Walters and Lawrence Griffiths, two of the three convicts who were found dead in their fortress, within the prison walls, late Saturday, were to try to escape, according to the original plans, the woman said.

The mutineers were to make their way out by climbing a drain pipe on top of the death house.

"Tex was to get the automatic pistols sent to him and Griffith and they were to try the dash alone," Mrs. Walters said. "I believe that at the last moment Harry Ferland was nearby and Tex handed him a gun and urged him to join them." Ferland was the third member of the convict trio.

EDDYVILLE, Ky.—(Associated Press)—Prison life was practically restored to normal today, following the burial in the penitentiary cemetery here yesterday of Monte Walters and Harry Ferland, convicts who met death in a barricaded dining hall, after fatally wounding three guards in an attempt to shoot their way out of the prison.

Two pine boxes containing their bodies were hauled out at a time on a prison wagon drawn by a span of mules to Vinegar Hill and interred without services. The body of Lawrence Griffith was shipped to his former home at Dresden, Tenn.

JURORS ACCEPTED IN STOKES CASE
Now Ready for Divorce Trial in Million Dollar Feud

NEW YORK—(United Press)—The jury that will decide whether W. E. D. Stokes, New York, millionaire, is entitled to a divorce from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, was selected and sworn in an hour and fifty minutes today.

Mrs. Stokes personally passed on the qualifications of the jurors. Her attorney, Samuel Untermyer, respecting her woman's intuition, consulted her before accepting each man.

This is Stokes' second divorce suit. Mrs. Stokes won the victory in the first one, but the verdict never became effective because of a technicality. Stokes named other men. Mrs. Stokes last week had her husband indicted in Chicago on a charge of beating her good name. The feud has lasted five years and cost $3,000,000.

The chief question asked by a defense in examining witnesses was "would the fact that the woman married a man twice her age influence you to believe that she would be more likely to be unfaithful than a woman married to a man of her own age?"

All the jurors, accepted, answered in the negative.

Becoming annoyed at the manner in which one of the men called answered his questions, Untermyer asked him whether he ever read the newspapers.

"No," replied the man, altho he had at the time two dailies folded in his hands. He was excused and waved the papers as he left the stand.

MANY TRAMPLED IN STAMPEDE

Shout of "Earthquake" Causes Panic in London Crowd

60 PERSONS ARE INJURED

Caged Animals Destroyed and Property Damaged

LONDON — (Associated Press)—Shouts of "Earthquake! Earthquake!" in a crowded street market in the east-end yesterday caused a stampede in which a number of people were trampled, hundreds of caged animals destroyed and miscellaneous property ruined or stolen.

The scene of the disaster was the narrow Solater-st., Bethnal Green, a noted center for the sale of animals and domestic pets. Local traders say that an auction was in progress on the open street when a band of toughs rushed into the throng and yelled "Earthquake!"

The crowd fled screaming, while the stalls were overturned. The caged birds and animals and other property that fell in the path of the mob suffered severely, many of the creatures being trampled to death and many of the people falling among them to be trampled themselves.

Women and children shrieked, maimed dogs howled, parrots screamed and chickens squawked. The Daily Mail says sixty persons were injured, 2,000 small caged birds were either killed or escaped and 100 dogs and cats and scores of poultry were killed.

The terror of the crowd was increased by the explosion of bottles of gasoline in one of the overturned stalls, which led to the belief that shooting was in progress. The dealers assert that the whole affair was an organized raid by a gang of thieves.

GIVES WOMEN TO WHITE PLAGUE

New Intensive Living Increases Toll of Tuberculosis

WASHINGTON, — (United Press)—Modern women are surrendering in increasing numbers to the deadly white plague, tuberculosis, because of their more active participation in life, according to the United States public health service.

Heretofore, women have been less liable to the disease than men because of their more sheltered and less intense mode of living. The entry of women into business and other careers, however, virtually has destroyed the disparity between the male and female consumption death rate.

About one-third of all deaths between the ages of 20 and 40 are due to tuberculosis, chiefly the pulmonary variety, health service records show. The reason for this is explained by Dr. F. C. Smith, assistant surgeon general of the service. "This period is the age of greatest stress, the time of extreme endeavor," he says. "Between 20 and 40 ardent desires, intense ambition, passions, both good and evil, drive the human machine restlessly. Pride, instinct and vanity, the desire to excel, to marry well, to be admired, all conspire to stimulate activity. The ambition to make money, obtain place and secure power leads to self-denial and to immoderate exertions."

"Whether a man's capital is brain or brawn, whether he has mental force or physical strength to invest, the misperception of life finds him spending lavishly of the best he has. Whether he succeeds or fails, his expenditures are limited only by his physical sources."

"With women less than with men is this a critical period and it will not be strange if, owing to more active participation in life's struggle, the difference in the mortality rate from tuberculosis, which now is in favor of the female, should shortly disappear."

COURT ENACTING SEQUEL TO "HOOCH IN HAYSTACK"

"Hooch in a haystack," was the title of a drama of Auklaize-co farm life unfolded in appeals court Monday.

Conviction of Theodore May, of Waynesfield, whose farm was raided by dry agents more than a year ago was up for review.

Officers at the time alleged they found a quantity of purported whiskey in a haystack on May's farm. May's attorneys contended their client was never given a fair hearing. Their appeal is based on those grounds.

Appeals judges took the matter under advisement.

RESCUES PRETTY GIRL; MARRIES HER

MRS. CHARLES MANGELS AND (RIGHT) HER POLICEMAN HUSBAND, WHO WON HER HAND BY RESCUING HER FROM SAN FRANCISCO HOODLUMS.

SAN FRANCISCO, — (Special.)—Criminologists may be right in charging the blundering comic movie cop with encouraging crime.

But Patrolman Charles Mangels is living proof that the rewards a hero policeman gets in the movies can also come in real life.

A "comic kop" may blunder in his work on the galloping tinnies, but when the handsome young officer appears, you can bet he's going to do credit to policing by cleaning up the gangs, rescuing damsels, and finally marrying the prettiest.

And that's Mangels' real life story. A gang of hoodlums were insulting Miss Elizabeth Godfrey when Mangels appeared. Single-handed, he beat up the whole gang. Love ripened and the rescued girl is now Mrs. Mangels.

But this is but one of Mangels' exploits. In 1921, he was decorated by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children and honored by the Red Cross for rescuing a Russian girl who fell from a relief ship into San Francisco Bay.

He has made other rescues of a thrilling order, and has been repeatedly awarded citations by the local police heads.

LYLOYD GEORGE'S PROGRAM CUT

Hoarseness Causes Reduction in Speaking Engagements

MONTREAL, Que. — (Associated Press)—Lloyd George will deliver the first formal public address of his American-Canadian tour at a mass meeting late this afternoon in the Mont Royal Arena when he will thank Canada for its aid in winning the war.

Arling early today Lloyd George was the guest at a breakfast given by Mayor Martin and then was taken on a drive around the city to visit industrial plants and points of historic interest.

The program in Canada has been curtailed as a result of hoarseness which developed from his speaking in New York City and enroute here last week.

The affliction is said not to be serious nor to require the services of physicians but it is felt that as a precautionary step there should be reduction in his speaking engagements. He appears vigorous with face tanned by sun and wind. The program arranged for his American tour, it is said, at this time at least, requires no modification.

His program today included attendance at a luncheon tendered by Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and at a dinner as the guest of Lord Shaughnessy, chairman of the board of Canadian Pacific railroad. He will conclude his two days' visit to this city tonight, leaving for Ottawa where he will be a guest tomorrow.

6 TAKEN IN RAID ON HOTEL

Gambling is Charged by Police; Act on a Tip

In response to a tip that gambling was in progress at the Sanders hotel, 112 1-2 E. Market-st., Detectives Hargrove and Clapper at 1:30 a. m. Sunday swooped down on the place and arrested six persons on gambling charges.

Those brought to police headquarters gave their names as: Gus Pappas, 414 S. McDonel-st.; George Mays, S. Pierce-st.; Charles Carr, 117 W. Elm-st. H. M. Dean, 1223 N. West-st.; Charles Orr, Harrod; Frank Voorhees, 112 1-2 E. Market-st.

All were released on bond for arraignment Monday morning before Judge Neil R. Poling after charges of gambling had been filed against them on the police blotter.

Charge of drunk and reckless driving of an automobile was filed Saturday night by Sergeant Watkins against A. Bascome, Central-hotel, who is charged with driving headon in a car owned by F. Dempster, 733 S. Broadway, parked on N. Central-av.

Five of the gamblers entered guilty pleas and were fined $10 each. They were Gus Pappas, George Mays, Charles Orr, Charles Carr and Frank Voorhees. H. M. Dean entered a not guilty plea and is at liberty under bail for trial Tuesday afternoon. He told the court he was a witness only. In their story to the court the five said they were engaged in a friendly game of poker when police stormed the room and confiscated money on the table.

BLUFFTON GROUP IN CONCERT

Temple Singers Render Program of Sacred Songs

A sacred concert was given Sunday night at the First Baptist church by the Temple Singers of Bluffton College under the direction of G. A. Lehmann, supervisor of music at the college. Mrs. C. N. Stauffer furnished the accompaniment.

A. F. Hoffsummer, of Harrisburg, Pa., director of the campaign for Bluffton College in which $125,000 is sought in Allen-co for endowment and expansion, gave a brief address in which he outlined the hope back of the college drive.

He emphasized three points about Bluffton College. First, the college needs financial assistance to increase its endowment and expand its buildings; second, it has a strong faculty of men and women imbued with loyalty for the institution and third that the college itself carries the spirit of service through its work.

As an evidence of this he said that 315 of its students are now engaged in teaching in the schools and colleges in various parts of the United States and foreign countries.

The Temple Singers will give a sacred concert next Sunday night in Trinity Methodist church and the Sunday night following in the Central Church of Christ.

2 MEN ARE SHOT TO DEATH

Slain in Outbreak of Violence at Cleveland

FIVE SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Two Arrested and Others Sought by Police

CLEVELAND, Ohio — (United Press)—Two men were shot to death, two others were wounded, a fourth was beaten so severely he may die, and two additional persons were stabbed in an outbreak of violence in Cleveland over the week-end.

The dead: Robert J. Schreiber, 24, killed in gun battle Sunday.

Neil Long, 21, shot during an altercation Sunday.

Mike Farano was shot in neighborhood quarrel with Angel Talabina, 32. His condition is said to be serious.

James W. Gankin, 59, beaten on the head and as skull fractured by three men Sunday.

Lulu Scott severely stabbed in affray which resulted in Long's death.

John Wright, 47, was stabbed with a cutting knife.

Joseph Smiley was charged with the stabbing by police who say the affair was the result of Wright striking Smiley in an argument at the latter's home.

PLACED UNDER GUARD Allen Ponder, 33, was charged with the slaying of Schreiber and placed under guard at City Hospital, where he was taken with a bullet wound in his leg.

Ponder told police Schreiber lost money in a card game and went home. He returned a few minutes later with a gun and demanded his money, according to police. When it was refused, he drew a gun, according to Ponder's statement, and started firing.

Police say Ponder returned the fire and Schreiber collapsed on the floor. While prostrate on the floor in a dying condition, police say, Schreiber recovered fire and wounded Ponder.

Police were without definite clues to the identity of the slayer of Long. The shots were fired at a number of men and women who attempted to break up a party. In the scuffle that followed Lulu Scott was stabbed. When the intruders were driven into the street, shots were fired. One of the bullets struck Long, who was a bystander. He died a few minutes later in Charity Hospital.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEEDED FOR SOLUTION OF WORLD'S PROBLEMS

Christian education was the theme of an interesting sermon preached at First Christian church Sunday evening by Herman C. Eldridge, of Erie, Pa., editor of the Sunday school publications of the Christian denomination.

His appeal was that the complex problems of life today can be solved only by people who have received Christian education because they are the ones who must carry out God's plan for the universe. He said 15,000,000 babies are born in the world every year, these being part of the Divine plan of making the world new.

Eldridge stressed the thought that every person comes into the world with a particular task to perform and

U. S. LIKES LLOYD GEORGE TYPE

Forbes Sees Welcome, Even by Those Who Disagree

HATS OFF TO LOS ANGELES

Marvelously Growing City to Get U. S. Navy Station

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK (Special)—Many American business leaders have disliked Lloyd George's policies, but they greatly admire the British premier's dynamic personality. He has proved himself a doer. He went at things with vim, determination, courage. Red tape couldn't bind him hand and foot.

He never was afraid to take chances. He was both original and resourceful. He always could get thru mountains of work. Also he knew how to take care of number one. He played the game to win, and he won oftener and longer than any other European wartime statesman.

Also—not unimportant—he has a keen sense of humor and knows how to maintain his own good humor. He is assured of a sincerely cordial welcome in the United States. Incidentally, will he and Woodrow Wilson have a confab?

If I were to enter the stock market guessing business, I would venture the opinion that Southern Railway is getting into shape to follow Baltimore & Ohio's dividend example.

Gov. M. B. Wellborn, of federal reserve bank, Atlanta, who has been visiting New York this week, regards conditions in the south as sound. Certain spots have had severe loss of crops but by intelligent management, even these sections will be able to pull thru all right.

Business, he believes, is likely to move along at about its present pace until there is some definite development in Europe. Then he looks for distinct quickening of the business pace in this country. Gov. Wellborn recently returned from Europe.

Tells Plant Juice Man of the Great Good the Herbal Remedy Did Her

SHE HAD STOMACH TROUBLE

"It is really marvelous what one bottle of your Plant Juice has done for me," said Mrs. Charles Graham, of 2022 Pauline street, Fort Wayne, Indiana, during a recent conversation with The Plant Juice Man at that city.

MRS. CHARLES GRAHAM
"I had been afflicted with stomach trouble for a long time and think I tried everything under the sun but did not get any better," Mrs. Graham continued. "My stomach was in terrible condition. I had no appetite for food of any kind and gas would form in my stomach so that I would bloat badly and be in intense pain. I was constipated; my liver was inactive and I had had bilious attacks and terrible headaches."

"My kidneys troubled me so that I had pains across my back and, in addition, I had rheumatic pains in my limbs and feet which became so bad at times that I could hardly walk."

"I read so much about Plant Juice that I started taking it and it is marvelous what it has done for me. I have a good appetite and enjoy my meals and I can eat anything without gas or bloating. My bowels are regular and my liver works right so that I do not have bilious attacks or headaches. My kidneys are in good condition so that the pains have left my back and the rheumatism is improved. It surprises me to see how easily I can go up and down stairs now, for I have new strength and ambition. I am begging my sister and several of my friends to try Plant Juice for I know it will help them as it did me."

Week after week, month after month, for almost one and one-half years, this celebrated, herbal medicine, Plant Juice, has continued to bring surprising results in cases in Lima and vicinity until now, this remarkable Plant Juice formula is looked upon as an established fact throughout this entire section and hundreds of sick and ailing people are turning to this medicine for relief. Many people who take the Plant Juice say it seems to act like magic upon the stomach, liver and kidneys.

Plant Juice is sold in Lima at Hunter's drug stores at 49 Public Square and Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.—Adv.

One cannot but take off his hat to Los Angeles. Its rate of growth is the wonder of America today. And now comes this news, from the Los Angeles Examiner:

"That a complete oil loading station for vessels of the United States navy will be established at Los Angeles harbor, as the result of the visit here of Rear Admiral Luther Gregory, chief of the bureau of docks and yards, is the prediction of local naval officials."

Altho Admiral Gregory made a thorough investigation of harbor problems while with the congressional committee on naval appropriations, he admitted his chief interest was in the organization of a fuel base here. In this regard he stated:

"There will be no coal burning ships in our navy at the end of five years. The few coal burners we now have are kept in the Atlantic. From an engineer's and navy standpoint, Los Angeles harbor is the logical point for protected fuel loading station. It is probable the navy will construct a complete system of pipe lines, and storage tanks with a loading wharf at the outer harbor breakwater."

Every investor and speculator tries his hand at analyzing the outlook. "Forecasting for Investors," is a sound, thoughtful, interesting booklet just issued by Theodore Prince of L. M. Prince & Co., the New York Stock Exchange firm of investment bankers. Readers of this column can receive a copy by writing to Prince, No. 20 Broad street, New York.

One of the very large national banks in New York recently shed its national charter, and became a state institution, the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Co. Should Washington order all national banks to give up their branches, as threatened there would unquestionably be a stampede to quit the national system.

Numbers of leading New York banks have spent millions and millions of dollars in acquiring branches and housing them in impressive edifices. These institutions would not dream of undoing all this costly, constructive work.

There may be social and political reasons for forbidding banks to open branches outside of their home city or their home state. But if the law be construed as prohibiting national banks from having branches to serve customers in different parts of their home cities then national charters will be exchanged for state charters wherever as in New York, the state law permits of home branch banking.

Two banks in California have more than seventy branches each in New York City, the Corn Exchange bank has more than fifty branches.

What was said recently in this column about the poor treatment of rank and file employees by the United States government has brought a letter from one chief clerk, who says they are not forbidden to join labor unions but are forbidden to strike. As to pensions he points out that a betterment fund was started in 1920. But "we are paying for our own retirement; the government has not contributed a dollar."

He also declares that the most abundant can receive at present is $60 a month.

All of which bears out what previously was said here about the negligent treatment of its employees by the federal government. What taxpayers would like to see, would be half as many government employees paid much better salaries to do a full and efficient day's work. (Copyright, 1923.)

DISARMING CRIMINALS

THE agitation against the sale of one-hand guns is gradually sweeping the country. Many cities have made headway in this direction and a number of states have passed stringent laws concerning the traffic in these man-killers.

Lima has some regulation in the matter, but it could not be called stringent. Only a short time ago the city commission reduced the annual tax on dealers who handle pistols from $10 to $1. It was said that some persons were buying from mail order houses and that it was not fair to tax local dealers when this was being done.

The place to hit is the mail order house where anyone may buy a man-killer. It is obvious that lawbreakers can't use what they can't get. Stop the sale of revolvers and the majority of crooks will be disarmed and many murders prevented.

The argument that law-abiding citizens could not obtain weapons for defense if the sale of the one-hand guns is prohibited is bunk. How many persons in Lima have pistols lying around handy in their homes, waiting for a burglar to appear? We suspect that less than one half of one per cent could find their guns in a hurry if they really had any, should they discover a housebreaker. And if that's the only argument, then why couldn't the householder use his shotgun or rifle as well as a pistol?

It is time to stop the indiscriminate traffic in these weapons. The sooner every city and state gets busy along this line, the sooner crime throughout the country will diminish.

FORECASTING THE WEATHER

IT'S possible that, in the future, the weather forecaster will be able to predict as far as a month ahead. So claims the Weather Bureau, which already has had considerable success in this direction, sometimes striking it right three out of four times, in forecasting both temperature and rainfall.

Maybe this would have considerable commercial value. But it would make life duller, for one of the most interesting features of existence is the uncertainty of the weather. The future loses most of its charm when it becomes too certain—too cut-and-dried.

A SPANKING MACHINE

EVERY so often some official breaks into print with a new suggestion concerning punishment of those who transgress the laws of society. The latest is the Crown prosecutor of Winnipeg, Canada. He favors a spanking machine to be used on first offenders with a gearing apparatus to regulate the severity of the punishment.

If Canada finds such a machine of value, we might try it on our speeders and reckless auto drivers. We would not favor it for bootleggers who are distributing poison, for their cases deserve something more severe than a spanking.

CHILDREN

NOT of the money troubles of that well-known institution, the American Family, are due to allowing sons and daughters to live at home without paying board. So claims Miss Oller, home economics adviser of a big eastern bank. She apparently has an incorrect notion of the number of families permitting this board-free arrangement. But she's on the right track.

It's unfair to children, not to train them for responsibility. A child should work for everything its gets. The kind of work, or the amount, doesn't matter—just so he learns that money is the result of someone's labor.

CONTAGIOUS

TRUCK gardeners notice that vegetables growing near cities are contracting more plant diseases year after year. Man pollutes the atmosphere so that even plant life has difficulty living in it.

Our congested civilization, with its machinery, is a generator of poison gases and the worst of these is auto exhaust.

WE CAN'T CHEAT NATURE

GERMANY reveals the name of the drug used by her shock troops during the war to stimulate them to a great outburst of energy. Alcohol does the same.

But alcohol has its reaction—a slump below normal. So does the German drug. So does every stimulant, even emotions such as enthusiasm and inspiration. We can't fool nature, we can't cheat her, tho all of us try repeatedly.

WHERE TO?

SHORT ONES

Of course huge dinosaur eggs were found by egg-sperits.

If they go far enough into these Mongolian relics they may find a nickel cigar.

Seems as if scientists are able to dug up about everything except pre-war prices.

Better bring these scientists back to America and let them try digging for coal.

Mongolia, with six-inch eggs a million years old, must be a bad place for actors.

Perhaps these ancient eggs are so big it only takes about ten of them to make a dozen.

Discoveries only date back a few million years, so first coal strike is not among them.

Scientist found 70 fossil skulls well preserved, showing all fossils are hard headed.

Dinosaurs walked on four feet. Hope their discovery doesn't start a dinosaur dance.

If they bring these Mongolian fossils into America the things may run for Congress.

But the ancient dinosaur had to crow like a cannon after laying eggs six inches long.

Ancient picnics were bad. Think of forgetting the salt for a boiled egg six inches long.

All of these dinosaurs dug up in Mongolia lived in a cave, proving rents were high then.

Advice not to carry all your eggs in one basket originated when eggs were six inches long.

Fossils a million years old have good teeth. Wonder what kind of tooth paste they used?

These huge eggs they found are millions of years old. Bet they found them in a cate.

NEURALGIA OF THE HEAD

At first glance neuralgia of the head suggests such terms as pneumonia of the lungs or gastritis of the stomach, yet neuralgia occurs in many places other than the head, the perhaps it is most common in the head. When one complains of neuralgia he usually means trifacial neuralgia which is ache or pain felt in one or more branches of the trifacial (fifth cranial) nerve. There are three main branches, one going to the forehead, one to the upper jaw, one to the lower jaw; when the ache is confined to one branch only the victim of the neuralgia should be thankful, just as a man feels when he falls and breaks an arm and a few ribs—thankful it isn't his neck.

But to return to our neurology—and neurology is right, this time for it means study of nerves. Neuralgia means nerve ache or nerve pain, Neuritis means nerve inflammation (whether attended with pain or not), Neurasthenia means lack of nerve strength or something like that—a hypothetical state, for of course nerves have no strength and there is no such thing as nerve energy or nerve power. Nerves are mere conductors of messages; they never produce energy or power.

That is a trite thing to say; yet so many deluded people fall into the habit of assuming that there is such a thing as nerve or nervous energy and that one's store of such energy may become exhausted when the "nerves run down"—a silly notion, if you have just a smattering of physiology—yet a notion which, I regret to confess, some doctors still foster among their clients.

Head or facial neuralgia varies in severity from a comparatively endurable dull aching to that most devastating of head pains, tic douloureux, in which there are agonizing spasms of pain occurring suddenly and frequently during the attack.

A great many people with neuralgia fondly imagine they have neuritis, which, to the untutored, seems more classy. The old timers really had little to say; so they used to ascribe neuralgia to such conventional causes as the climate, cold, uric acid, all of which are now recognized as not true. Some body hit upon the poet's fancy that anemia is a case of neuralgia and expressed it as "the cry of the nerve for more blood."

Very pretty, but not sound, for as a

THIS LITTLE WORLD

NEW YORK

BY CASUAL STROLLER

NEW YORK—(Special) — The gospel of every New Yorker is: No body cares a hang what his neighbor thinks or does.

Costumes that would cause a riot in Main street go almost unnoticed. And public love-making draws no stares except from out-of-towners. Fifth avenue buses and Coney Island subway trains are favorite places for holding hands. But many couples stroll down Broadway and Fifth avenue holding hands as frankly as in the gloom of old-fashioned Lovers' Lanes.

Tucked away in unexpected spots in Manhattan are several colonies where society and wealth rub shoulders with poverty and tenement houses. A Vanderbilt led the way some years ago to Sutton Place, a revived street three blocks long in the shadow of Queensboro Bridge.

An older colony, started by a real French duke, is in East 86th street, beyond Avenue A. Passing thru a garish district of small shops and movie theatres, you come to a quiet block here tiny brick houses, quite unlike the regulation ugly brownstones, line 86th street between Henderson Place, a blind lane scarcely half a block long, and East End avenue. Three sides of this block belong to the picturesque colony. Fronting on East End avenue and extending from 84th to 89th streets is East River Park, a narrow strip of green unknown to 99 out of 100 New Yorkers.

They're forming a Straphangers' League to fight for more transit lines in New York. Not everyone who rides the subways and elevated really wants a seat, however. Rush hours find the platforms of the archaic L cars jammed with passengers who seem to prefer to stand, tightly wedged against the iron railings of the platforms stepped on and jostled and elbowed as gates are forced back to disgorge struggling people at way stations. And inside empty seats often fail to attract the platform devotees. They're mostly girls. Perhaps the reason lies in a throwback, with reverse English, to the old days when men (and men only) stood on the back platforms of trolley cars and smoked and discussed national politics; those were the days, now gone forever, when smoking on street cars was not prohibited and every adult male actually took interest in national politics.

Wouldn't you think a head waiter had a better job than an ordinary waiter? Maybe—but not among waitresses in a Broadway hotel. Every now and then, if you're a regular customer, you observe one of the erstwhile haughty dames—who used to wave a sheaf of menus at you behind a good thick pillar—now wearing a cap and white apron and juggling a tray of dishes. Demoted? Reduced to the ranks? Got gay with a customer, maybe? Indeed, not. She has been promoted—backward. A waitress' job is much better than the more lordly and apronless job of ushering. More tips. Girls start as head waitresses or "captains," and watch for their chance to get into the tip-getting ranks.

An old-fashioned "little German band" has been cleaning up sizeable cash collections in Greenwich Village by keeping off the streets and meandering up and down among the back yards. They've got it figured out that most people spend more time in the back of the house than the front, and so are more apt to hear the concert—and hence to pay, either for the music or to stop it.

WAVES

Sometimes the waves come roaring in Like troops round a beleaguered city.
Advancing with the will to win
And deaf for every cry for pity;
Mad with the power which they possess,
They angry waves are merciless.

Another day, when skies are fair,
They come to shore with joyous singing,
And play with all the child-like there Who seek the shells which they are bringing;
To them on a summer's day
You'd never dream such waves would slay.

Again you'll see them wearing plumes
Like knights of old on chargers prancing,
Or like a field of lily blooms
On which the morning sun is dancing;
Then riding shorewards, one by one,
They're handsome things to look upon.

And so with us and all our moods.

matter of fact, in actual anemia, neuralgia is seldom complained of, while the nerves should be right by screaming for more blood all the time.

The truth is that there is always a local cause for facial neuralgia. Decayed or infected or impacted teeth are probably the commonest cause. The impacted unerupted third molar (wisdom tooth) is a notorious cause of inveterate neuralgia in young adults. Nearly half of all adults over 25 years of age have not cut one or more of their wisdom teeth. Sinus infection or other trouble within the nose—a frequent cause of facial neuralgia. Tumors or other lesions in the brain, involving or pressing upon the centers from which the nerves arise or upon the tracts or roots of the nerves, are sometimes responsible for neuralgia. Degeneration of the Gasserian ganglion of the trifacial nerve is often responsible for the douloureux and demands excision of the ganglion for relief.

Medina, New York.—"I had a great deal of trouble such as women often have, and this affliction facted my nerves. For over two years I suffered this way, then I read in the Buffalo Times about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have taken it with very good results. Rochester, N. Y.—"After my twin girls were born I was all run-down. My neighbors thought I was going to die. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I never can say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. NEALIE DORR, 16 Spruce Park, Rochester, N. Y.

CREDIT ADS ARE PLANNED

Merchants May Urge More Care by Retail Consumers

INCOMES ARE MORTGAGED

Luxuries Often Take the Place of Necessities, Dealers Say

Plans for an educational advertising campaign in Lima to give the consumers a better conception of the idea of clean and truthful advertising, are to be discussed at the Friday noon luncheon of the Retail Credit Men's Association of the Board of Commerce.

Secretary Morton of the board said the decision to put on the advertising campaign will rest entirely on how much interest is shown by the retail credit men in the proposition. If they seem uninterested and apathetic, the plan will likely be dropped, he said.

One of the things which the advertising campaign will emphasize, if it is put on, is that the character of the customer is the thing back of the credit which the retail merchant extends.

MANY UNPAID ACCOUNTS
The last meeting of the association brought out the fact that in this city there are about 1,500 delinquent accounts.

Names of delinquents will be read at the luncheon Friday noon and their standing will be discussed, it was announced at the credit bureau of the board of commerce. It is claimed that 90 percent of these delinquencies exist because people have mortgaged their incomes to pay for luxuries while asking their "butcher and baker and candlestick maker" to stand them off so they can have food and raiment.

A discussion of this situation is expected to bring about some rather fast and hard rules relative to extending credit to that class of persons who mortgage incomes to pay for luxuries and let the retail merchant worry along as best he can.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA
Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after cold or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

"T'WAS A SLAUGHTER" IS DELPHOS VIEW OF GAME

DELPHOS — "I thought we might be beaten, but I didn't think it would be so bad," remarked a well-known Delphos baseball fan this morning, speaking of the Delphos-Lima game in Lima, Sunday. "It certainly was an awful slaughter."

Four hundred or more fans from Delphos and vicinity went to Lima to witness the game. The somewhat disappointed at the outcome, they console themselves with the thought that there is another chance, as Sunday's game tied the series of seven contests.

The next game between the teams contending for the championship will be played Sunday, Oct. 21, in Lima, and if fair weather prevails a larger number of fans is expected to attend.

RALLY DAY IS SUCCESS AT DELPHOS METHODIST

DELPHOS — Rally day was observed in the Methodist church in the Sunday-school. When the count was made, 250 students were present, but more came later and the total attendance was nearly 300, almost equal to the enrollment.

The school met in the Sunday school room and was led in assembly singing by Mrs. H. M. Davies. After the lesson study the school adjourned to the auditorium, where the main program was given. After prayer by Rev. W. A. Deaton, pastor, the primary department children sang two songs.

Mrs. J. H. Jenkins, superintendent of the department, gave a talk on its work and importance, especially urging parents to attend and bring their little ones. "We said the Cradle roll had 27 names enrolled, and that 11 of the members would be promoted that day to the Beginners department and presented promotion certificates."

Miss Anna Welch gave a talk on the significance of rally day and on the value of Christian education to the young people.

Miss Eunice Carr of Dayton, a leader in Y. W. C. A. work in that city, was the principal speaker. Her theme was "The Bible," and she told how it might be studied to bring greater interest and help.

Special numbers were a song by a class of girls, an anthem by the choir and selections by the Sunday school orchestra under direction of W. G. Point.

RETREAT PLANNED
DELPHOS — Rev. Father Rupert, pastor of St. John's Catholic church left Monday morning for Carey where he will enter into a three-day retreat. He will return to Delphos Friday.

ANNOUNCE Banns
DELPHOS — Banns of matrimony were announced for the first time Sunday in St. John's Catholic church for Miss Catherine Burger and Edward Becker both of Delphos.

REDS WIN SEATS IN CABINETS

Political Alliance is Formed in German States

LONDON—(Associated Press)—Dr. Von Kahr's so-called reactionary rule in Bavaria has led to counter measures in Thuringia and Saxony whereby the Communists will enter the cabinets of those German states, says Reuters Berlin correspondent.

Conversations have been in progress between the Saxon and Thuringian premiers with regard to the formation of an alliance of all the central states of Germany against the growth of Fascism in Bavaria and it is stated that these negotiations have led to the recognition of the need for creation of a "red bloc."

The Communists will accordingly join the Thuringian government. In Saxony conversations between the Socialists and Communists have already resulted in the assignment to the latter of the portfolios of labor and education.

During the negotiations in Saxony, continued the correspondent, both parties agreed that the government of the reich was powerless against Dr. Von Kahr and Adolf Hitler and it is stated that the Communist participation in the Saxon government is the beginning of a determined defensive fight against reaction.

As a result of these developments, Chancellor Stresemann has asked Premiers Zeigner of Saxony and Froehlich of Thuringia to come to Berlin for a discussion.

7 STREETS AWAIT ASPHALTING
Are Being Worn Out Because of Delay by Contractor

Asphalting of seven of the city's important residence streets is being held up because the Johnson Brothers Co. of Findlay has failed to bring its portable asphalt plant to Lima, according to City Engineer J. W. Jewhurst. He said the streets have been ready for asphalt for some time.

Those streets which have been ready and on which the concrete base is being worn down by traffic because of the failure to be asphalted are Jameson, Nye, Fawcett, State and Lowell.

Most of these streets, according to Jewhurst, were ready for the asphalt topping early in September. Johnson was to bring his plant here and begin work three weeks ago but for some reason he has failed to arrive. Jewhurst said the city could not keep these streets closed so they were opened to traffic even tho they had no topping.

City officials said Monday they had no idea when the asphalt plant will arrive and the working of topping the streets started.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I am engaged to a certain young man who lives in this city. Although I really should be very happy, I am not and with you would help me with my problem. There are times when I am so in love with my fiancé and think he is the very best in the world. Other times I am just the opposite and think that I don't love him at all.

He is very good to me and I don't know why I change like that toward him. Do I really love him truly or not? Would I be happy if I married him?

ENGAGED.

If you are not sure of your love for your fiancé, how can you expect any one else to be certain what your true feelings are on the matter. Apparently the only thing for you to do is not to marry him until you are very certain. Perhaps the thing to do would be for you to devise some plan which would separate you from your fiancé for a time. You would then, I am sure, be able to decide yourself whether you truly love this young man.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a young girl, 17 years old. I have a fellow and he gave me a diamond ring. I love him but I can't find out whether he loves me or not. What would you advise?

Girls your age should not be worrying about such things. Your school work is far more important. Then, too, you should never accept a diamond ring from a young man unless you are definitely engaged to him. Return the ring and tell him that you now realize that you should not have accepted it.

The young man must evidently care for you and no doubt considers himself engaged to you, if he has given you a diamond ring.

Dear Miss Smart: Will you please print in your column a recipe for molasses candy? A SCHOOL-GIRL.

The following recipe is a good one: Two cups of molasses, one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of vinegar, butter size of a walnut. Boil ingredients together until mixture will become brittle when dropped in cold water. Remove from fire, stir in one-third teaspoon baking soda and cool in a buttered pan sufficiently to pull. Pull and cut, using scissors or sharp knife.

LITTLE HAT STAYS

By MARIAN HALE

PARIS — Do you wonder that the Parisienne clings to the little hat when you look at these models?

Each one sits firmly on each neatly coiffed head, and the most lively autumn wind cannot dislodge it and spoil the effect, or coax the little tendrils out to play.

These hats understand their responsibility and they accept it without reserve.

The conventional black satin turban of this season is inevitably accompanied by a jeweled pin, and the new model turbans frequently have a touch of color, and possibly a tassel that reaches below the shoulder.

The cloche allows and slight trimming or variation that does not interfere with the line, and the shorter the brim the better.

Dr. Elwood is conducting a series of evangelism talks at the church during this week at 7:45 every evening and will also preach next Sunday morning and evening. He is the pastor of the Atlantic City Board-Walk church.

MAIL BY BENTON - CAME BY THE REGULAR COMPANY

HOPE KANGAROO
Hope Kangaroo, daughter of wealthy Loring Ranger, disappears after a hundred-thousand-dollar reward is offered by the father for the safe return of his daughter.

Kangaroo's two friends, Estelle Higgin, attorney, and Jurena Charlie, Higgin, attorney, assist in the search for her.

Acting upon directions from Hope's cousin, Ranger leaves a hundred thousand dollars worth of bonds at a place mentioned by the abduction.
At Dr. Bristow's sanitarium, George Kangaroo is detained. He needs Verna Kangaroo, patient who is supposed to be Kangaroo's nurse. A particular comes to spend some time at the sanitarium and Dr. Bristow tells Kelsey that he is called Alderman Higgins.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It came at last. Kelsey had been so intent on discovering some underlying motive in the request, that he had not seen the advantage to himself. It was a great light, but still he could not divest himself of doubt.
"What's your game, Doctor?" he said bluntly.

"I wouldn't pull you out of the water if I saw you drowning, or rescue you from a burning house.
But it's foolish for a man to cut off his nose to spite his face; and I'm pretty well fed up on loafing. Perhaps, on the understanding that I take over this work solely for my own diversion and advantage, and not in any sense to aid you, I might—"

"Put it on any grounds you please."

Bristow interrupted with a significant movement of the head. "Shall I expect you here tomorrow morning?"

"Yes," curtly. "I'll draw up a sort of schedule tonight of the subjects to be covered, and have it ready to submit to you."

CHAPTER XIII

Days were seldom so exactly as planned. Bristow hovered about all morning, helping lay out the work, consulting books, offering suggestions, keeping Kelsey so busy, that he did not have a moment to slip away from his desk and look for the girl, and the afternoon was not much better. It was almost five o'clock before he felt free to leave the office and seek her.

Most of the patients, he saw, with their attendant nurses, were clustered over at the side of the lawn interestedly watching the destruction of a wide section of the wall beyond the encircling hedge.

He stood looking on with the others, but his eyes were less engaged with the wall than in sifting the group of spectators for a sight of the girl, and he had about made up his mind that she was not present, when he finally saw her sitting on a stone bench a little removed from the rest.

Kelsey looked about for the omnibus, he sat watching the demolition of the wall.

"Where is Miss Copley?" he asked under his breath.

"Ill," she answered. "She's got a sick headache. Another of the nurses is supposed to be looking after me, but she's busy now."

"Oh," she went on in a fervent whisper, "I've prayed that you would come today. I've dared so much on the strength of it. It was so necessary that I should see you."

"And also, that I should see you," he broke in. "I have news. Bristow has engaged me to help him in the preparation of some magazine articles. I will be in his office, in a position to know everything that goes on. Perhaps—"

"Wait!" she interrupted. "Before any one comes, I have something I want to give you."

She cast a searching glance about;
and then slipped a folded paper from between the sheets of her pad, letting it fall on the seat between them, screened by her frock.

He crumpled his hand over it, and with deft slight-of-hand transferred it to his pocket; bringing up in its stead a cigarette.

"It's safe," he assured her.

"And now tell me about your work with Bristow," she said.

He did so briefly, explaining the features connected with it that might inure to their benefit.

"Also," he went on, "I have found out about Higgins as you asked me to."

"Oh, yes?" But the interest she had shown the day before in the decrepit old man seemed to have waned.

"He's hand in glove with Bristow," said Kelsey, concluding his sketchy report. "And I have no doubt is just as big a crook."

"And Copley, too," added the girl with conviction. "They're all three crooks together."

Kelsey himself had much the same idea, but he hadn't wanted to say it.
Strange, that she should speak so of her sister.

But already her thoughts seemed to have turned in another direction.
She was gazing again at the gap in the wall.

"Do you know anything of Dr.
Bristow's engagements?" she asked unexpectedly.

He shook his head. "Only that I heard him tell his secretary, he would be attending a dinner of the Medical Society in town tomorrow night."

"Tomorrow night!" For some reason, this seemed to her extremely important.

"And Copley's sick headache will last two or three days; they always do." She spoke musingly as if the two facts to her held some connection.

Fearing that he had already stayed too long with her, and knowing of nothing else to be said, Kelsey rose to go; but she detained him with a quick gesture.

"Wait!" He could see that her fingers were trembling as she guided her pencil; there was an excited tremor in her voice. "I must see you tomorrow. Don't let anything prevent. I have an idea. We may be able to get away."

He nodded. A nurse was moving toward them, and he dared not linger.
"I will lay off about noon, and find you."

He was eager of course to see what the message she had given him contained, but he deliberately held himself in check. He ate his dinner, talked an hour or so with Morton, and it was not until he was safe in his room and had taken even, precaution against surprise, that he ventured to look at it.

"I was brought here," it began without preamble. "I don't know how. The next day—it must have been the next day—Dr. Bristow told me that I had been very ill and was in a hospital, but that I would see my father and mother soon. I believed what he said for a little while.
But when the effects of the drug wore off—I must have been given a drug—I felt well and strong. My parents did not come, there were excuses. I insisted on going home. Dr.
Bristow and the Copley woman wouldn't let me. When I tried to go, they prevented me by force. I screamed and struggled. Then the Doctor put a drug into my arm.
These scenes happened several times,
and always ended in the same way.
They never let me get out of that one room. Then one day when Copley thought I was asleep, I heard her talking outside my door to another nurse."

"This woman said: 'Is your sister getting any better?' and Copley answered in a weep-y voice: 'No; she'll never be any better, I'm afraid.' They talked a while, and then the other nurse said: 'If you were a little younger, dear, and hadn't been here for years, I'd try and get the hundred thousand dollars reward for that missing Hope Kangaroo. You're almost a dead ringer for her.'"

"Then it all flashed over me, what they were doing; why I, Hope Ranger, was in this place—"

The sheets of the letter shook in Kelsey's hands.

"After I heard these women talking, and understood what it meant,
I nearly went mad, trying to think what to do. I had already tried to bribe Copley, but she is in love with Bristow and absolutely ruled by him.

So I just sat thinking; plans, plans seething through my brain—"

"I know all about that," muttered Kelsey, as he paused to turn the page. Then she quickly resumed:—

"I was so furious, so despairing, so bent on finding some way out, that I wouldn't ever look at those two, the only persons I saw. I wouldn't speak to them, or notice them in any way. They couldn't understand the reason for the change in me, and were surprised. I saw them exchanging glances. And then it came to me, I don't know why, that if I pretended to be silly and not remember anything, they might let me out of that room and go about as I saw the others doing from my window."

"I worked up another scene with Copley, when I knew the Doctor was away. I fought to get out the door, and when she gave me the drug to quiet me, I accused her of having given me an over-dose in her excitement. She denied it, but was bothered.
Then I pretended to lie in a stupor for almost an entire day. When I came to, I acted as if I were stupid, as if I were some one else. I said I was a writer and asked for pencils and paper, and wrote pages of nonsense."

"I heard Bristow talking to Copley.
'Shamming,' he said at first, but she was convinced by this time that she had given me an over-dose, and finally got him to thinking so, too. I heard him explaining to her about 'shock' and something about 'a con-genitally weak brain.' She was upset about it all, but he told her, 'Better so, if it's true.'"

"He put me through all kinds of tests—surprises, everything. It was dreadful, but my nerves are strong, and I was fighting for my life. He talked to me about my parents, my home. I was indifferent. Then he got to trying to make me remember things that aren't true. He told me my name was Verna Copley, and I repeated it after them like a parrot.
I have only forgotten my pose with them once. That was when Copley tried a hat on me and I caught a glimpse of myself and burst out laughing. But it was so grotesque that even an imbecile would have laughed."

"I have been afraid to make myself known to any one. To say that I am Hope Ranger would only convince most people that I am the lunatic I appear. But I am Hope Ranger, I am. And I know that you will believe me, just as I believed you."

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO MRS.
JOHN ALLEN PRESQUIT
MY DEAR LESLIE:

I am hastening to write you a little note to tell you some news that will shock you greatly. Leslie,
I think your father is very ill. Yesterday he had some sort of seizure in the office and after he was brought home he lay in a kind of stupor for quite a while.

The doctor seemed very much afraid of a paralytic stroke, altho your father still has the use of his limbs and has no trouble in talking.
Of course we had the best specialists in town and they finally decided it was entirely a nervous trouble that affected him. He has been isolated from every one. Even I am not to be allowed to see him except for about five minutes a day, just long enough, the doctor said, for me to smile and nod at him and say everything is all right and he is not to worry.

Just as soon as he is able to be moved we are going to take him to a camp in the Adirondacks. One of your father's partners has offered his beautiful place up there.

I will telegraph or telephone you every day. Should have telegraphed yesterday only the doctor said it was foolish for me to do it, as there probably would be no change in him for a few days and I could give you only the bare facts which might worry you inexpensively and in a letter I could tell you everything.

Leslie, your father has been working beyond his strength. Ever since the president of the steel mills died your father has taken upon himself his duties as well as his own and it has proved too much for him.

However, today, 24 hours after his seizure, he is perfectly conscious and able to speak, altho the doctor has told him that he must not do so. This, of course, we take as great encouragement.

I haven't cabled Alice, as I do not want her to be worried and of course we can get a cable to her very quickly if necessary.

Don't worry more than you can help and don't try to come, because we have two nurses on the job and you could do nothing that could not be done much better by this trained service, or by my co ps of servants, who, you know, are all devoted to

SCHALK DISCUSSES RELATIVE MERITS OF GIANTS AND YANKS IN WORLD'S SERIES GAMES—THINKS BOTH TEAMS HAVE IMPROVED

(BY RAY SCHALK)
(World's Greatest Catcher)

ARE the Giants of 1923 as strong an aggregation as the pennant winners and world champions of 1921 and 1922?

Are the Yankees of 1923 a better ball club than the team that twice fell before the Giants, after winning the American League pennant?

Those two questions have been fired at me time and again since it is apparent that the two New York clubs would again meet in the annual baseball classic. I will first consider the Giants.

To my way of thinking the Giants of 1923 are a superior club in every way to the pennant winner of the two previous years with the exception of pitching. And I do not believe that the pitching has slipped enough to make any great difference with the play of McGraw's club.

The Giants are a smart baseball club. They play snappy ball, are alive to every situation and quick to take advantage of a slip on the part of an opponent. To my way of thinking the Giants (twice) beat the Yankees in the world series because they played smarter baseball. That was really the deciding factor.

Mental slips lose many base ball games. Incidentally, such lapses have a decidedly bad effect on the morale of a ball club. Sloppy work on the bases played havoc with the chances of the Yankees in both of their clashes with the Giants. The memory of how Bancroft, at short for the Giants, cut off several throws that seemed certain to be allowed to go thru, thereby trapping unsuspecting Yankee runners, changed the complexion of several important games. Only a ball player knows what such slips take out of a team.

Very often one good utility man adds much strength to a ball club. In Travis Jackson, the youthful southerner, the Giants have picked up one of the most promising infielders I have seen in action in years. Jackson's ability to fill in at short, second and third, just about saved the Giants.

Speed is always a big factor in baseball. The Giants have the speed. There isn't a slow man on the team chaperoned by John McGraw. I

RAY SCHALK SAYS—

Giants are weak only in pitching. Yankees are far more formidable than last year.

Mental slips beat the Yankees in the 1922 series. Infielder Travis Jackson has been big help to Giants.

Giants have the speed and it is a big factor in winning games.

Yankees are well nigh invincible when at the top of their game.

Babe Ruth should be a real threat this year instead of a handicap.

Huggins is ruling Yanks with an iron hand getting results.

don't except Catcher Frank Snyder, who, despite his bulk can travel mighty fast for a big fellow.

McGraw always has his team running. He has drilled into them that each and every man must play head-up baseball and utilize his speed to the greatest possible extent.

The Yankees are a direct contrast in this respect. As a whole the Huggins entry is rather slow moving. It takes more base hits for the Yankees to score a run than the Giants. Incidentally, there isn't the intelligent use made of speed that really is available.

Then again, in considering the Giants as a team, one must not overlook the part that Manager McGraw plays. In a short series perfect direction of play means much. McGraw is a great leader who has the courage of his convictions. He makes few mistakes. He dominates the play of his team. His players respect his every word. Woe be to the athlete who fails to follow his directions. The Giants then are a smart ball club, well handled. The team has great power on the offense and a pretty fair defense. The pitching is just so-so. However, the Giants don't need air-tight pitching to win. Twice being returned the world champs has given the club much confidence. However, McGraw has never let that confidence reach the stage of acute chestiness, which is so fatal to any ball club.

Unquestionably the Giants of 1923 are a better ball club than the team that won for McGraw in the two previous years.

What about the Yankees?

The Yankees are one of the most unusual ball clubs in the history of the game. At times the Yanks display a game that is unbeatable, and yet for a great ball club it can look very ordinary. It has many number of individual stars, a punch on the offense, the biggest threat in baseball in Babe Ruth, a remarkable pitching staff, yet in the two big tests, the world series, the club has failed to live up to expectations.

I think better days are ahead for the Yankees. The addition of Horn Pennock strengthened the pitching staff. The Yankees lacked a good southpaw. Pennock has filled this breach. He should trouble the Giants.

However, to my way of thinking, the outstanding feature of the Yankees' play this year has been the fine spirit and harmony that has prevailed in the club ranks. Individual effort has been shunted aside for team play. Incidentally, Manager Miller Huggins is reigning supreme. His word is law, and his orders are being followed to the letter.

Yes, the Giant and Yankee of 1923 are both improved ball clubs over former years, and the Yankees, to my way of thinking, have gained the more strength.

League Season of 1923 Passes Into Base Ball History. Tigers Second

The 1923 baseball season is ended, so far as the schedule is concerned in the National and American league, as well as in the American Association. It was a season devoid of any sensational results, individually or collectively. There were no records broken, that have any particular significance in the individual or collective achievements of former years. Both New York organizations finished at the head of their respective leagues, perhaps lacking honors that should be given them by the millions of true sports, that believe in the best precedents; in other words that commercialism and not true sporting principles, on both pennants; that the pocketbook rather than individual efforts, proved a handicap, that to a great extent took the better part of enthusiasm from that class of devotees, that believe the highest attainments are only possible when talents are only possible when results depend on fundamental equality. But while the Yanks made a runaway race; won about as they pleased, thru buying the Boston team, and working baseball hopes of that city, the experiment proved almost a failure so far as the Giants were concerned.

There are deplorable incidents to look back to, which gave the Giants the pennant. The heartbreaking series between them and the Cincinnati Reds, which resulted in five straight victories and as is known the pennant. The cause for this disastrous series, will perhaps never be known, but it is certain, that with all McGraw's judgment in collecting star players; the best that money can buy, it is an exaggerated opinion to believe that they are so superior as to win a series of games from such a strong team as the Reds.

There is no cry of spilled milk. In this result, but it is only reasonable to expect that if commercialism does predominate the national pastime, as it has been doing for the past few seasons, the great army of base ball devotees will have to look forward to colleges and other spirited contests, where the true principles of sport are strictly adhered to, to pacify the highest ideals.

DETROIT GETS SECOND PLACE
As was foretold, as far back as a couple of weeks ago, the Detroit Tigers have supplanted the Cleveland Indians for the runner up position in the American league by one full game. Speaker's team exploded, and although they made a valiant try to hold their place, the fast coming Tigers past them within reaching distance of the goal.

Perhaps the most satisfactory aspect of the whole race has been the great improvement of the Washington team in the last few weeks of the race. By defeating the Boston team in the final game of the season, they squeezed into the first division. This was possible thru Detroit defeating St. Louis in the very last game of the season. The wonderman of pitchers, Walter Johnson, did more than one man's share to make this possible. His performances have only gone to prove him one of the very greatest slammers that ever lived.

KANSAS CITY WINS AMERICAN
If all league races could be as interesting as the one that has been waged in the American association practically all season, there would be a stimulus towards league ball. It has been a see-saw effort between the Blues and St. Paul all season, with a doubt of the outcome to within a half dozen games of the end.

Since hope bids the sport farewell for the season of 1923, the base ball world looks to the last great efforts between the Yanks and Giants. Wednesday begins the battle.

GOLF WILL BE PLAYED IN DEFIANCE OF SUNDAY LAW

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Birmingham yesterday spent her bluest Sunday. Insofar as the police were advised there was not even a game of croquet in the whole municipality. The links of the fashionable Birmingham Country Club were deserted, members finding their only diversion in looting about the club house and grounds. Officials of that club announced that members would play golf next Sunday, expecting to be arrested. A case will be carried to the highest courts to test the constitutionality of the state and city laws, it was stated.

A fight looking to the repeal of the city ordinance, which is a law to back up the state Sunday observance act, will be made before the city commission at its next regular meeting, opponents of blue Sunday announced today. Church people and others favoring the blue laws will be on hand, it is expected, to oppose any change in the ordinance.

Getting Ready For World's Series

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
NEW YORK—(By United Press)
—Without any surface indications of becoming anything like that, New York was getting set today for the annual world's series between the Giants and the Yankees starting Wednesday afternoon in the new Yankee stadium.

New York registers interest in sporting events by buying, not shouting and America's biggest city is plenty interested in the coming fireworks between the champions of Manhattan and the Bronx.

There are no pictures of the winning teams in the shop window, as in Cleveland in 1920. The New York coppers are not telling strangers about McGraw and Huggins in the way the Cincinnati cops related the virtues of Pat Moran in 1919. The schools are not going to be dismissed for the series and business will move along as usual.

The main evidence that a world series is to be played here and that customers are going to see the games can be found in the desks in the offices of the Giants and the Yankees where bushels of certified checks are dropped after each delivery of mail.

With the exception of the Yanks who might like another week to bring around some cripples, everything is set for the opening game.

Commissioner Landis has established his headquarters in town, the Giants are ready and the advance guard of out-of-town fans are clustering up the hotels.

The Yankees were to work out today and tomorrow in the Polo Grounds. Twenty thousand reserved seats and five thousand boxes have been well sold.

Arrangements are being made to handle 63,000 customers in the stadium but if the demand makes it necessary, 70,000 can be crowded into the stands. The Polo Grounds will seat 53,000.

NEW YORK—(By Associated Press)
—Altho Manager McGraw of the Giants has not announced the pitcher for the opening game of the world's series Wednesday, members of the Giants say that Arthur Nehf of Terre Haute, will start against the Yankees.

Frank Snyder, Giant catcher, said: "Nehf has shown all his old stuff

Locals Wallop Delpos In Game Featuring Hard Hitting and Fine Fielding

Apparently working on the theory that this is football season and therefore baseball should produce football scores when played so late, Lima's crack ball club walloped the Delphos American Legion team at the local grounds Sunday afternoon in one of the most lopsided games ever seen here. The final score was 15 to 0.

It was terrible to see the massacre that Lima inflicted on those Delphos lads, and they had to keep right on trying to stop the singles, doubles and triples that traveled past their reach. The locals were just in a hitting streak and no one could have stopped them.

Big Bill Morrisette, 6 feet, 2 inches, handsome and a pitcher of no little ability served them up for the Limas and the zippy delivery that he uncoiled was a puzzle to the opposing batsmen thruout the entire game. A couple of times they threatened, but good support and airtight hurling turned the tide.

The only reason that Lima was so far superior is that the local collection of big league talent far surpassed the Delphos team. Such stars as Pittenger, Shaffer, Gilbooley and Poorman were far too good for the Delphos boys.

And the way in which the locals welcomed a southpaw hurler was far a surprise. It took the game to show just how they did. Lefty Brown started for Delphos and after he had been the donor of several runs he received his shower ticket and the veteran Guy Tilton, thrice a winner over Lima, took the box. In the two innings that he pitched Lima managed to get three tallies just to show that they were still in the game.

But the cake of the day was cut in the sixth inning. Eight runs if you may stretch your imagination that far, resulted and an even half dozen of them came after two were down. But the funny part of it is that Lima made but four bingles that inning. Two free passes, a hit by pitcher and a generous sprinkling of errors caused the sudden flurry.

Delphos was in a dangerous position to score twice but good work on the part of the locals shut down possible runs. In the first inning Runner after taking advantage of Gil's error went to second on a pilfered sack and tried for home when Sanquist slammed a stinging single to right field. Poorman, Lima sun-gardener, made a sensational stop and with a perfect peg to the plate cut down Runner. In the third and seventh innings Delphos had men on base but the local defense tightened and kept them away from the plate.

That the locals were hitting unusually hard is evinced by the number of times that the fence was the recipient of calls. Costello, Gilbooley, Poorman and Shaffer slammed the sphere to the fence.

Huggins Will Head Yanks

NEW YORK—(By Associated Press)
—Babe Ruth's forty-first home run, Tris Speaker's fifty-ninth double, the retention of their half game lead over Cleveland by the Tigers, and the signing of Miller Huggins as manager of the Yankees for another year, were the outstanding happenings Sunday as the major league baseball teams brought to a close the 1923 season.

Ruth's homer came in the first inning of the Yankee-Athletic game at Yankee Stadium, and on the first ball pitched to him by Slim Harris. The feat brought Babe a tie with Cy Williams for home run honors of the season, each having registered 41.

Speaker's fifty-ninth double advanced the world's two base hit record. The Cleveland manager smashed the old record last week and has twice broken his own mark since that time.

Detroit, by means of a ninth-inning rally against St. Louis, held its half game advantage over Cleveland for second place in the American League. The final standing reads: Detroit 53; Cleveland 53.

Commenting upon the engagement of Miller Huggins for another year as manager of the Yankees, Colonel Ruppert said:

Use Oil To Keep Hair Neatly Combed
Just plain glostora oil beats anything you can use for keeping stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair combed; and it gives the hair that neat, naturally glossy, refined effect.

Glostora oil is not sticky or greasy. It does not show on the hair or leave it stiff and artificial looking as waxy pastes and creams do.

Just rub a little through your hair, once or twice a week, and it will make your hair so soft and pliable, it will stay in place, any style you comb it. You can get glostora oil at most any drug store. A two ounce bottle will last for months.—Adv.

American Lovers Wanted

(BY GERTRUDE GILLMAN)
OUT on the Joseph M. Schenck production lot they're converting Joseph Schildkraut, handsome and talented young American actor, into the great American screen lover.

"They" are Miss Frances Marion and Chester Franklin, co-directors for "Deserted at the Altar" and acorns of other experts in film and heart technique.

It's an interesting transformation—battered because Schildkraut is practicing with Norma Talmadge in her new picture.

Norma, a fiery half-savage dancer of the African desert, rouses amid slithering serpents. Beside her, in sleek costume and his dark eyes smoldering, sets Joseph, a French hiding duplicity under a cloak of romance. About them squats a group of experts, in solemn conference, acquainting Schildkraut with the American girl, demands in timing flitting. The actor, anticipated as any man whose amatory scene is challenged is plainly baffled.

FRANCES MARION

The directors called lunch so that he might regain composure, and meantime Miss Marion, one of the most celebrated and high-saluted photodramatists, retained on "Deserted at the Altar" to expert such situations, explained the controversy. "Schildkraut," she said, "trained in the European school of acting, gives his love gestures the finesse, the courtly restraint and sly innuendo to which old world audiences are accustomed. But they are too delicate, too tender, to get over with the American woman. So our problem is to translate the manner he would authentically assume as an aristocratic Frenchman to our more vigorous love idiom without hurting the characterization. His own artistic gesture might be considered here to offend."

"Can't you hear our sophisticated young lady say, to her would-be here as he thrums his fingers along her wrist. Try that on your own guitar?" or, replying to a delicate phrase about her sun-kissed hair, "Yeah, the best brilliantine, at fifty per bottle?"

"No stage hero can survive that attitude of the audience flapper."

"He's got to be more brisk, reckless, dominant, masterful to give our girls a thrill. That's what we were impressing upon Schildkraut. There was a recent screen period," she resumed, "when the American girl, to show her sophistication, went in for plays and players of an erotic and exotic type. The Freudian influence, that. That was the heyday of real and fake Latin lovers. Then the flapper lengthened her skirts and returned her fealty to the American hero simultaneously."

Hurrah for the American lover! And that brings us back to Schildkraut; returned now from pie with ice cream to romance a la mode on the Talmadge set. Just what kind of gesture then, he inquired amiably, would the directors and counselors suggest as flapper proof?

Miss Marion could tell him but couldn't show him. Better get someone who knows! Ah, suggests someone, just the man, and right on the lot, too—William Mack!

Would Mr. Mack be so good as to show Mr. Schildkraut how the aggressive American male wows and wins? Sure—Mr. Mack would be only too happy, being himself not without reputation as a great lover, as his marriage to four American beauties attests.

Postscript: The fact that Mack was also four times divorced really has nothing to do with the case.

Harrison's Revue Presents "My Country Girl"

A chorus of attractive girls, gorgeously costumed, with real singing and dancing ability and a quartet which proved a tremendous hit, are among the features of Harrison's lyrical revue, which opened Sunday afternoon at the New Orpheum.

The Panama Four offers old and new song numbers, with a harmony that is not often equaled at the Orpheum.

"My Country Girl" is the title of the offering for the first half of the week.

Snooze Kinnear takes the leading comedy part—that of a mawkish country boy. And he does it well. He is ably assisted by the other members of the cast, including

Charles Williams, a blackface, who makes a more than ordinarily good impression as a colored gentleman humorist; Harry Lynn, character comedian; Lawrence Hagar, silver-voiced tenor; Flo Clark, Jane Oliver and Emma Miller sustain the feminine role in pleasing fashion.

A special feature has been arranged for Wednesday which has been designated as "Chicken Night." At the 7:30 performance, more than a dozen chickens will be freed from a coop and will be given to those who choose to catch them. Snooze Kinnear and other comedians will assist in the fun.

A complete change of program will be offered Thursday, when "The Gay Coquettes," in two acts and seven scenes, will be presented for the last half of the week. Friday will bring another bar-

"Deserted at the Altar" Is Simple, Human Story

BESSIE LOVE, Tully Marshall and William Scott head the cast in "Deserted at the Altar" appearing until Wednesday at the Sigma theatre. It's an adaptation of the famous play by Pierce Kingsley and is just a simple country story, human, throbbing and real.

The plot is laid in the peaceful village of Hillsboro. Here lived Ann and Tommy Moore, who, when their mother died had been forced to accept the severe guardianship of Squire Simpson. Coming from school one day Tommy is accidentally struck by an automobile driven by Thomas Crandall, returning to the city after a vacation in the mountains. Crandall takes Tommy to his home where he meets Ann. It is a case of love at first sight and some time later they plan to be married. Meanwhile Ann's uncle has died and bequeathed her $50,000. Following fast on the heels of this surprising bit of information, the Squire's errand son returns unexpectedly from the city, as usual, badly in need of money. The Squire's crafty, cunning brain asserts itself, and readily seconded by his son, he fosters a plan to have him marry Ann, thereby keeping the inheritance in the family.

How Crandall is accused of being the father of another woman's child at his wedding and barely escapes lynching by the indignant citizens of Hillsboro make up some of the high spots in the remainder of the story which of course has a happy ending.

"Strangers of the Night" Is Great Story

FANS who go to the theatre to see stars and those who attend to see a great story, will find both at the Quilna theatre the first half of the week where "Strangers of the Night" is the piece de resistance. It's a screen version of Walter Hackett's stage success, "Captain Applejack."

Working on the brilliant story of the timid Britisher who becomes a pirate and roams the Spanish Main, the director has embellished it with beautiful photography, magnificent settings and a superb cast. The audience thrilled by intense drama and swept into gales of laughter as Matt Moore, in the role of "Captain Applejack," fought thru the mystery of the treasure hidden in his ancestral castle in Cornwall, and swaggered and swore aboard his pirate craft. Enid Bennett's blonde loveliness contrasted with Barbara La Marr's dark seductiveness as these two brilliant actresses portrayed the intrigue and romantic adventure of the demure English miss and the beautiful Russian spy. Robert McKim was at his best as the leader of the pirate mutiny, and others in the cast who stood out distinctively were Emily Fitzroy, Otto Hoffman, Thomas Ricketts and Mathilde Brundage.

Bess Meredith was responsible for writing the excellent scenario and the memorable photography is credited to Alvin Wyckoff, who left the De Mille to do this picture. Robert Ellis was the artist who designed the beautiful sets.

DeWolf Hopper at Faurot Monday Night

BY CADJE
 In the engagement of De Wolf Hopper, at the Faurot, it is well for the theatregoers to remember that this attraction is at the very pinnacle of comic opera strength, headed by the outstanding genius of comic opera comedians. It is as near the ideal organization as brains, experience and money can put together. It is finishing its sixty-ninth consecutive week, and in that time has changed artists more than one hundred times, towards a standard, which in its present status makes of it a most prominent, and fitting organization for the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's immortal works, that the American stage has known.

In all seriousness these claims must not be taken as press agent imagin-

ings or the ramblings of an heat-oppressed brain. It has been the policy of this organization to play different cities for one week, but in nearly every instance they have been necessitated in extending the time to from one to ten extra weeks. During the season it has played Montreal six weeks; Baltimore ten weeks; Louisville five weeks, and as an illustration was almost forced into Newark, N. J., where the attendance was unprecedented. At Baltimore over 200,000 people saw DeWolf Hopper and this same company, which means that in excess of 20,000 people a week attended the performances.

Manager Clark has been putting his best efforts forward for almost three years to book DeWolf Hopper, and always something has transpired to make this impossible, until now. There are few theatrical triumphs counting so high as this; so perfect a blending of all that is best in this particular line of endeavor. "The greatest Koko of all time in an opera" as one great musical critic put it, "that will live for hundreds of years after Madam Butterfly shall have been forgotten."

SCHALK DISCUSSES RELATIVE MERITS OF GIANTS AND YANKS IN WORLD'S SERIES GAMES—THINKS BOTH TEAMS HAVE IMPROVED

(BY RAY SCHALK)
(World's Greatest Catcher)

RE THE Giants of 1923 as strong an aggregation as the pennant winners and world champions of 1921 and 1922?

Are the Yankees of 1923 a better ball club than the team that twice fell before the Giants, after winning the American League pennant?

Those two questions have been fired at me time and again since it is apparent that the two New York clubs would again meet in the annual baseball classic. I will first consider the Giants.

To my way of thinking the Giants of 1923 are a superior club in every way to the pennant winner of the two previous years with the exception of pitching. And I do not believe that the pitching has slipped enough to make any great difference with the play of McGraw's club.

The Giants are a smart baseball club. They play snappy ball, are alive to every situation and quick to take advantage of a nip on the part of an opponent. To my way of thinking the Giants twice beat the Yankees in the world series because they played smarter baseball. That was really the deciding factor.

Mental slips lose many base ball games. Incidentally, such lapses

have a decidedly bad effect on the morale of a ball club. Sloppy work on the bases played havoc with the chances of the Yankees in both of their clashes with the Giants. The memory of how Bancroft, at short for the Giants, cut off several throws that seemed certain to be allowed to go thru, thereby trapping unsuspecting Yankee runners, changed the complexion of several important games. Only a ball player knows what such slips take out of a team.

Very often one good utility man adds much strength to a ball club. In Travis Jackson, the youthful southerner, the Giants have picked up one of the most promising infielders I have seen in action in years. Jackson's ability to fill in at short, second and third, just about saved the Giants.

Speed is always a big factor in baseball. The Giants have the speed. There isn't a slow man on the team chaperoned by John McGraw. I

RAY SCHALK SAYS—

Giants are weak only in pitching.

Yankees are far more formidable than last year.

Mental slips beat the Yankees in the 1922 series.

Infielder Travis Jackson has been big help to Giants.

Giants have the speed and it is a big factor in winning games.

Yankees are well nigh invincible when at the top of their game.

Babe Ruth should be a real threat this year instead of a handicap.

Huggins is ruling Yanks with an iron hand getting results.

don't except Catcher Frank Snyder, who, despite his bulk can travel mighty fast for a big fellow.

McGraw always has his team running. He has drilled into them that each and every man must play heads up baseball and utilize his speed to the greatest possible extent.

The Yankees are a direct contrast in this respect. As a whole the Huggins entry is rather slow moving. It takes more base hits for the Yankees to score a run than the Giants. Incidentally, there isn't the intelligent use made of speed that really is available.

Then again, in considering the Giants as a team, one must not overlook the part that Manager McGraw plays. In a short series perfect direction of play means much. McGraw is a great leader who has the courage of his convictions. He makes few mistakes. He dominates the play of his team. His players respect his every word. Woe be to the athlete who fails to follow his directions. The Giants then are a smart ball club, well handled. The team has great power on the offense and a pretty fair defense. The pitching is just so-so. However, the Giants don't need air-tight pitching to win.

Twice being returned the world champions has given the club much confidence. However, McGraw has never let that confidence reach the stage of acute chestiness, which is so fatal to any ball club.

Unquestionably the Giants of 1923 are a better ball club than the team that won for McGraw in the two previous years.

What about the Yankees?

The Yankees are one of the most unusual ball clubs in the history of the game. At times the Yanks display a game that is unbeatable, and yet for a great ball club it can look very ordinary. It has any number of individual stars, a punch on the offense, the biggest threat in baseball in Babe Ruth, a remarkable pitching staff, yet in the two big tests, the world series, the club has failed to live up to expectations. I think better days are ahead for the Yankees. The addition of Harry Pennington strengthened the pitching staff. The Yankees lacked a good southpaw. Pennington has filled this breach. He should trouble the Giants.

However, to my way of thinking, the outstanding feature of the Yankees' play this year has been the fine spirit and harmony that has prevailed in the club ranks. Individual effort has been shunted aside for team play. Incidentally, Manager Miller Huggins is reigning supreme. This word is law, and his orders are being followed to the letter.

Yes, the Giant and Yankee of 1923 are both improved ball clubs over former years and the Yankees, to my way of thinking, have gained the more strength.

League Season of 1923 Passes Into Base Ball History. Tigers Second

The 1923 baseball season is ended, so far as the schedule is concerned in the National and American league, as well as in the American Association. It was a season devoid of any sensational results, individually or collectively. There were no records broken, that have any particular significance in the individual or collective achievements of former years. Both New York organizations finished at the head of their respective leagues, perhaps lacking honors that should be given them by the millions of true sports, that believe in the best precedents; in other words that commercialism and not true sporting principles, won both pennants; that the pocketbook rather than individual efforts, proved a handicap, that to a great extent took the better part of enthusiasm from that class of devotees, that believe the highest attainments are only possible when results depend on fundamental equality. But while the Yankees made a runaway race; won about as they pleased, thru buying the Boston team, and wrecking baseball hopes of that city; the experiment proved almost a failure so far as the Giants were concerned.

There are deplorable incidents to look back to, which gave the Giants the pennant. The heart-breaking series between them and the Cincinnati Reds, which resulted in five straight victories and as is known the pennant. The cause for this disastrous series, will perhaps never be known, but it is certain, that with all McGraw's judgment in collecting star players; the best that money can buy, it is an exaggerated opinion to believe that they are so superior as to win a series of games from such a strong team as the Reds.

There is no cry of spilled milk, in this result; but it is only reasonable to expect that if commercialism does predominate the national pastime, as it has been doing for the past few seasons, the great army of base ball devotees will have to look forward to colleges and other spirited contests, where the true principles of sport are strictly adhered to, to pacify the highest ideals.

DETROIT GETS SECOND PLACE
As was foretold as far back as a couple of weeks ago, the Detroit Tigers have supplanted the Cleveland Indians for the runner up position in the American league by one full game. Speaker's team exploded, and although they made a valiant try to hold their place, the fast coming Tigers past them within reaching distance of the goal.

Perhaps the most satisfactory aspect of the whole race has been the great improvement of the Washington team in the last few weeks of the race. By defeating the Boston team in the final game of the season, they squeezed into the first di-

Getting Ready For World's Series

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK—(By United Press)—Without any surface indications of becoming anything like that, New York was getting set today for the annual world's series between the Giants and the Yankees starting Wednesday afternoon in the new Yankee stadium.

New York registers interest in sporting events by buying, not showing and America's biggest city is plenty interested in the coming fracas between the champions of Manhattan, and the Bronx.

There are no pictures of the winning teams in the shop windows, as in Cleveland in 1920. The New York coppers are not telling strangers all about McGraw and Huggins in the way the Cincinnati cops related the virtues of Pat Moran in 1919. The schools are not going to be dismissed for the series and business will move along as usual.

The main evidence that a world series is to be played here and that customers are going to see the games can be found in the desks in the offices of the Giants and the Yankees where bushels of certified checks are dropped after each delivery of mail.

With the exception of the Yanks who might like another week to bring around some cripples, everything is set for the opening game. Commissioner Landis has established his headquarters in town, the Giants are ready and the advance guard of out-of-town fans are clattering up the hotels.

The Yankees were to work out today and tomorrow in the Polo Grounds. Twenty thousand reserved seats and five thousand boxes have been well sold.

Arrangements are being made to handle 63,000 customers in the stadium but if the demand makes it necessary, 70,000 can be crowded into the stands. The Polo Grounds will seat 53,000.

NEW YORK—(By Associated Press)—Although Manager McGraw of the Giants has not announced the pitcher for the opening game of the world's series Wednesday, members of the Giants say that Arthur Neft of Terre Haute, will start against the Yankees.

Frank Snyder, Giant catcher, said: "Neft has shown all his old stuff

Locals Wallop Delpos In Game Featuring Hard Hitting and Fine Fielding

Apparently working on the theory that this is football season and therefore baseball should produce football scores when played so late, Lima's crack ball club walloped the Delphos American Legion team at the local grounds Sunday afternoon in one of the most lopsided games ever seen here. The final score was 15 to 0.

It was terrible to see the massacre that Lima inflicted on those Delphos lads, and they had to keep right on trying to stop the singles, doubles and triples that traveled past their reach. The locals were just in a hitting streak and no one could have stopped them.

Big Bill Morissette, 6 feet, 2 inches, handsome and a pitcher of no little ability served them up for the Lima-ites and the zippy delivery that he uncorked was a puzzle to the opposing batsmen thruout the entire game.

A couple of times they threatened, but good support and airtight hurling turned the tide.

The only reason that Lima was so far superior is that the local collection of big league talent far surpassed the Delphos team. Such stars as Pittinger, Shaffer, Gilhooley and Poorman were far too good for the Delphos boys.

And the way in which the locals welcomed a southpaw hurler was far a surprise. It took the game to show just how they did. Lefty Brown started for Delphos and after he had been the donor of several runs he received his shower ticket and the veteran Guy Tilton, thrice a winner over Lima, took the box. In the two innings that he pitched Lima managed to get three tallies just to show that they were still in the game.

But the cake of the day was cut in the sixth inning. Eight runs if you may stretch your imagination that far, resulted and an even half dozen of them came after two were down. But the funny part of it is that Lima made but four bingles that inning. Two free passes, a hit by pitcher and a generous sprinkling of errors caused the sudden flurry.

Delphos was in a dangerous position to score twice but good work on the part of the locals shut down possible runs. In the first inning Runner after taking advantage of Gil's error went to second on a pilfered sack and tried for home when Sanguist slammed a stinging single to right field. Poorman, Lima sun-gardener, made a sensational stop and with a perfect peg to the plate cut down Runner. In the third and seventh innings Delphos had men on base but the local defense tightened and kept them away from the plate.

That the locals were hitting unusually hard is evinced by the number of times that the fence was the recipient of calls. Costello, Gilhooley, Poorman and Shaffer slammed the sphere to the fence.

In the last three games he has pitched. If his arm is right McGraw is almost sure to pitch him on Wednesday.

Babe Ruth lacked a few innings in the last game of the season to equal the mark of Cy Williams of the Phillies. Lady Luck looked with a kindly smile on his efforts and out of kindness of heart said swat, and he swatted, without the latitude of the ball grounds, within the time limit set by just a few minutes.

So when the tablets of baseball history for 1923 shall have been chronicled it will read, that he saved the honors of the American league by at least equalling the records of the mighty swatter of the rival organization. Both finish the season with exactly the same number of circuit swipes.

HEILMAN AND HORNSBY ARE KINGS OF ALL MAJOR LEAGUE ST.ATSMEN

CHICAGO—(Associated Press), 378, but has been passed as a runner—Harry Heilmann of the Detroit Tigers will be crowned 1923 batting champion of the American league, with 212 tallies. League, with Rogers Hornsby, of while Heilmann has scored 210; St. Louis succeeding himself as the premier swatter of the National league.

With the season closing tomorrow, Heilmann, who won the title in 1921 with an average of .394, has an average of .401, including games of last Wednesday. If this total, .400 average is maintained in the final games of the race, it will be the sixth time in the history of the American league that a player has batted above .400 for the season.

A year ago, George Sisler, star first baseman with St. Louis, who was unable to play this season because of eye ailment led the race with an average of .419. One of his notable achievements of the 1923 race was the performance of Eddie Collins of the White Sox, who answered the challenge that he "was slipping" by climbing from twentieth last season to fourth, Chicago trailing him with 43. Carey this year, with an average above .350. Collins also is far in the lead in stolen bases, with a record up to Wednesday, of forty-seven.

"Babe" Ruth, star of the Yankees, is fourteen points behind Heilmann. Ruth managed to collect three four baggers during the past week, bringing his total up to forty. He still leads in total bases with 378.

Other leading batters: Bottomley, St. Louis, .367; Pournier, Brooklyn, .353; Frisch, New York, .347; Roush, Cincinnati, .347; Grimm, Pittsburgh, .340; Young, registered 121.

The veteran Cy Williams of the Phillies is heading for the home run honors of the majors with a string of forty-one.

Carey of Pittsburgh locks like the king of the base stealers with his 48 thefts, with Grantham of from twentieth last season to fourth, Chicago trailing him with 43. Carey this year, with an average above .350. Collins also is far in the lead in stolen bases, with a record up to Wednesday, of forty-seven.

Other leading batters: Bottomley, St. Louis, .367; Pournier, Brooklyn, .353; Frisch, New York, .347; Roush, Cincinnati, .347; Grimm, Pittsburgh, .340; Young, registered 121.

Just plain gloriola oil beats anything you can use for keeping stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair combed; and it gives the hair that neat, naturally glossy, refined effect.

Gloliola oil is not sticky or greasy. It does not show on the hair or leave it stiff and artificial looking as waxy pastes and creams do.

Just rub a little through your hair, once or twice a week, and it will make your hair so soft and pliable, it will stay in place, any style you comb it. You can get gloliola oil at almost any drug store. A two ounce bottle will last for months.—Adv.

Huggins Will Head Yanks

NEW YORK—(By Associated Press)—Babe Ruth's forty-first home run, Tris Speaker's fifty-third double, the retention of their half game lead over Cleveland by the Tigers, and the signing of Miller Huggins as manager of the Yankees for another year, were the outstanding happenings Sunday as the major league baseball teams brought to a close the 1923 season.

Ruth's homer came in the first inning of the Yankee-Athletic game at Yankee Stadium, and on the first ball pitched to him by Slim Harris. The feat brought Babe a tie with Cy Williams for home run honors of the season, each having registered 41.

Speaker's fifty-ninth double advanced the world's two base hit record. The Cleveland manager smashed the old record last week and has twice broken his own mark since that time.

Detroit, by means of a ninth inning rally against St. Louis, held its half game advantage over Cleveland for second place in the American League. The final standing reads: Detroit 539; Cleveland 536.

Commenting upon the engagement of Miller Huggins for another year as manager of the Yankees, Colonel Ruppert said:

American Lovers Wanted

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)

ON the Joseph M. Schenck production lot they're converting Joseph Schildkraut, handsome and talented young Austrian actor, into the great American screen lover.

"They" are Miss Frances Marion and Chester Franklin, co-directors for "Dust of Desire," and scores of other experts in film and heart technique.

It's an interesting transformation—hastened because Schildkraut is practicing with Norma Talmadge in her new picture.

Norma, a fiery half-savage dancer of the African desert, reposes amid silken cushions. Beside her, in glistening costume and his dark eyes smoldering, sets Joseph, a French spy hiding duplicity under a cloak of romance.

About them squats our group of experts, in solemn conference, acquainting Schildkraut with the American girl, demands in filmy flitting. The actor, annoyed as any man whose amatory style is challenged is plainly baffled.

The directors called lunch so that he might regain composure, and meantime Miss Marion, one of the most celebrated and high-salaried photodramatists, retained on "Dust of Desire" to expert such situations, explained the controversy.

"Schildkraut," she said, "trained in the European school of acting, gives his love gestures the finesse, the courtly restraint and sly innuendo to which old world audiences are accustomed. But they are too delicate, too tender, to get over with the American woman. So our problem is to translate the manner he would authentically assume as an aristocratic Frenchman to our more vigorous love idiom without hurting the characterization. His own artistic gesture might be considered here to effeminate."

"Can't you hear our sophisticated young lady say, to her would-be here as he thrusts his fingers along her wrist, 'Try that on your own guitar' or, replying to a delicate phrase about her sun-kissed hair, 'Yeah, the best brilliantine, at fifty per bottle'?"

"No stage hero can survive that attitude of the audience flapper."

"He's got to be more brisk, reckless, dominant, masterful to give our girls a thrill. That's what we're impressing upon Schildkraut. There was a recent screen period," she resumed, "when the American girl, to show her sophistication, went in for plays and players of an erotic and exotic type. The Freudian influence, that. That was the heyday of real and fake Latin lovers. Then the flapper lengthened her skirts and returned her fealty to the American hero simultaneously."

FRANCES MARION

Hurrah for the American lover! And that brings us back to Schildkraut, returned now from pie with ice cream to romance a la mode on the Talmadge set. Just what kind of gesture then, he inquired amiably, would the directors and counselors suggest as flapper proof?

Miss Marion could tell him but couldn't show him. Better get someone who knows! Ah, suggests someone, just the man, and right on the lot, too—William Mack!

Would Mr. Mack be so good as to show Mr. Schildkraut how the aggressive American male wows and wins? Sure—Mr. Mack would be only too happy, being himself not without reputation as a great lover, as his marriage to four American beauties attests.

Postscript: The fact that Mack was also four times divorced really has nothing to do with the case.

seven scenes, will be presented for the last half of the week.

"Deserted at the Altar" Is Simple, Human Story

BESSIE LOVE, Tully Marshall and William Scott head the cast in "Deserted at the Altar," appearing until Wednesday at the Sigma theatre. It's an adaptation of the famous play by Pierce Kingsley and is just a simple country story, human, throbbing and real.

The plot is laid in the peaceful village of Hillsboro. Here lived Ann and Tommy Moore, who, when their mother died had been forced to accept the severe guardianship of Squire Simpson. Coming from school one day Tommy is accidentally struck by an automobile driven by Thomas Crandall, returning to the city after a vacation in the mountains. Crandall takes Tommy to his home where he meets Ann. It is a case of love at first sight and gain matinee when two persons will be admitted for the admission price of one.

some time later they plan to be married. Meanwhile Ann's uncle has died and bequeathed her $50,000. Following fast on the heels of this surprising bit of information, the Squire's errand son returns unexpectedly from the city, as usual, badly in need of money. The Squire's crafty, cunning brain asserts itself, and readily seconded by his son, he fosters a plan to have him marry Ann, thereby keeping the inheritance in the family.

How Crandall is accused of being the father of another woman's child at his wedding and barely escapes lynching by the indignant citizens of Hillsboro make up some of the high spots in the remainder of the story which of course has a happy ending.

"Strangers of the Night" Is Great Story

FANS who go to the theatre to see stars and those who attend to see a great story, will find both at the Quilna theatre the first half of the week where "Strangers of the Night" is the piece de resistance. It's a screen version of Walter Hackett's stage success, "Captain Applejack."

Working on the brilliant story of the timid Britisher who becomes a pirate and roams the Spanish Main, the director has embellished it with beautiful photography, magnificent settings and a superb cast. The audience thrilled by intense drama and swept into gales of laughter as Matt Moore, in the role of "Captain Applejack," fought thru the mystery of the treasure hidden in his ancestral castle in Cornwall, and swaged and swore aboard his pirate craft. Enid Bennett's blonde loveliness contrasted with Barbara La Marr's dark seductiveness as these two brilliant actresses portrayed the intrigue and romantic adventure of the demure English miss and the beautiful Russian spy. Robert McKim was at his best as the leader of the pirate mutiny, and others in the cast who stood out distinctly were Emily Fitzroy, Otto Hoffman, Thomas Ricketts and Mathilde Brundage.

DeWolf Hopper at Faurot Monday Night

BY CADJE

In the engagement of De Wolf Hopper, at the Faurot, it is well for the theatregoers to remember that this attraction is at the very pinnacle of comic opera strength, headed by the outstanding genius of comic opera comedians. It is as near the ideal organization as brains, experience and money can put together. It is finishing its sixty-ninth consecutive week, and in that time has changed artists more than one hundred times, towards a standard, which in its present status makes of it a most prominent, and fitting organization for the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's immortal works, that the American stage has known.

In all seriousness these claims must not be taken as press agent imagin-

ings or the ramblings of an heat-oppressed brain. It has been the policy of this organization to play different cities for one week, but in nearly every instance they have been necessitated in extending the time to from one to ten extra weeks. During the season it has played Montreal six weeks; Baltimore ten weeks; Louisville five weeks, and as an illustration was almost forced into Newark, N. J., where the attendance was unprecedented. At Baltimore over 200,000 people saw DeWolf Hopper and this same company, which means that in excess of 20,000 people a week attended the performances.

Manager Clark has been putting his best efforts forward for almost three years to book DeWolf Hopper, and always something has transpired

to make this impossible, until now. There are few theatrical triumphs counting so high as this; so perfect a blending of all that is best in this particular line of endeavor. "The greatest Koko of all time in an opera," as one great musical critic put it, "that will live for hundreds of years after Madam Butterfly shall have been forgotten."

Look in Ten Days

See the whiter teeth appear when you combat the film

Your druggist this week has 10-Day Tubes for a new way of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. You see its results in prettier teeth wherever you look today.

Now we urge you to learn what it means to you and yours. The test is delightful, the results are amazing. Go find them out.

The fight on film
Dental science has in late years started a fight on film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Fewer escaped tooth troubles, fewer had glistening teeth, under old-time brushing methods.

Now research has discovered two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Careful people of some 50 nations have now come to employ it, largely by dental advice.

Night-and-day aids

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva — the neutralizer of mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva — put there to digest starch deposits.

Those factors act as tooth-protecting agents. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

Puffed Wheat

Steam exploded—flaky, flavory puffs

Quaker Puffed Wheat is whole wheat steam exploded—puffed to 8 times normal size. Over 125 million steam explosions are caused in every kernel!

The grains are airy, flaky, toasted, and the nut-like flavor makes them a confection.

The food cells are broken for easy digestion, so all the food elements are fitted to feed.

Minerals—vitamines—bran

Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk is the most delightful night dish any home can serve.

The wheat supplies 12 minerals which growing children need. It supplies the need of bran. And milk supplies three vitamins.

Those are foods you want your family to eat daily and in plenty. Then serve them in this tempting form. Let children revel in them.

The morning dainty

Quaker Puffed Rice is rice grains puffed to airy globules. It forms the finest breakfast dainty people ever get. Millions now enjoy it.

Both these foods are Professor Anderson's inventions. In taste and texture, and ease of digestion they hold the top place among grain foods.

Keep both kinds ever handy.

Physician

"Common sense as well as experience should teach those who suffer from nervousness and weakness that the most logical thing to do is to put into their systems the substance that is lacking, and that is pure organic phosphate," says Dr. Joseph Harrigan.
